388-0 for $47.8 Billion

House Approves Peak Peacetime Arms Fund

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has unanimously approved the nation's biggest peacetime military budget—a hefty $47.8 billion for the next fiscal year.

The appropriation bill was approved 388-0 in a roll-call vote Wednesday and sent to the Senate.

Under JFK's Request

The money bill, $67.5 million less than Kennedy had requested, continues to emphasize a buildup of conventional ground forces and weapons capable of fighting limited as well as global wars.

The bill earmarks 18 per cent of the money, for such items as six more Polaris firing nuclear submarines and 200 more Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The bill is $1.3 billion more than Congress approved last year. The new measure is for fighting forces and military hardware. Still to come are appropriations for military construction, civil defense and military assistance abroad.

In recent years the Senate generally has been more liberal than the House, and even the administration, with the Pentagon's purse strings. So the final figure could be even higher.

The House version would support 2,683,881 active military personnel and reserve forces of 1,003,500.

Free Hand for McNamara

The House voted more than was asked for Army Reserve and National Guard forces, but the action would not prevent Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara from going ahead with his proposal to trim these forces by 58,000.

The House measure would also give McNamara virtually a free hand to continue the controversial RS70 bomber program at the current cautious rate, or to use additional millions provided to expedite radar research if his experts recommend it.

Heat Main Gripe At Nuclear Test Site in Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — Christmas Island, the U.S. nuclear test site, is hot, soggy, and a feverishly busy speck of land in the Pacific.

Antennas sticking up all over give the coral atoll the appearance of a pin cushion.

Some Quit Jobs

Nuclear tests are scheduled at the 222-square mile British possession this month. The antennas apparently are to pick up or emit signals connected with the tests.

Workers returning from the island say about 1,600 civilians are employed there and at Johnson Island, 700 miles west. Both will be used for high and low-level blasts.

Some workers, complaining of the heat and humidity, quit their jobs in mid-contract. The island is just north of the equator, 1,300 miles south of Hawaii.

The 1,600-foot runway at Christmas Island was described as busier than the civil and military runways at Honolulu International Airport.

One worker said the ocean is dotted with submarines, Navy surface ships and transports of every kind.

The intense equatorial heat was said to be affecting many of the 2,000 Americans and 400 British military men who make up Joint Task Force 8, the U.S. nuclear force.

Carrying Gambling Items to Be Illegal

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Persons caught transporting illegal gambling equipment or information within New York State from Sept. 1 onward will be subject to penalties ranging to a year in jail and a $500 fine.

A bill making the transportation of gambling paraphernalia a misdemeanor was among a series of anti-crime bills approved Wednesday by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor said in a message that the measures "clarify and strengthen various administrative and statutory powers and procedures vital to the furtherance of criminal justice."

Other phases of the crime program make it easier for law-enforcement officials to obtain search warrants quickly and increase the membership of the State Board of Parole from seven to nine members to allow better screening of applicants for parole.

The governor announced these decisions on bills in other areas:

Public Employes—He approved a measure requiring local governments and school districts to establish grievance procedures for hearing non-financial complaints of employes. The bill applies to localities with 100 or more full-time employes but not to New York City. Localities have to Oct. 1, 1963, to comply with the law.

Business Law—A measure making New York the 16th state to adopt the Uniform Commercial Code, laws governing business dealings, was approved. The bill is effective Sept. 27, 1964, with the delay provided to allow businessmen, lawyers and others time to become familiar with the voluminous, technical bill.

Proclamation — The governor signed a measure providing for the permanent display in the State Library of the first draft of President Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation. The bill provides for a 14-member committee, to be appointed by the state education commissioner, which will design a permanent display case. The case will be constructed in the Rotunda of the State Library, which is housed in the Education Department building.

Fallout Shelters — A bill approved authorizes towns to establish, on petition of residents involved, special districts to build fallout shelters. The shelters would be financed through assessments on property within the district. The law is part of the governor's fallout-shelter program approved by a special session of the Legislature last November.

In the crime program approved by the governor, the ban on transportation of illegal gambling equipment, such as slot machines, establishes within the state a prohibition similar to a federal law against interstate transportation of such equipment.

The changes in connection with search warrants include one allowing a judge to issue a warrant to a law-enforcement officer without having to question persons from which the officer obtained information that led him to seek the warrant.

Gold Reply Is Sent to MacAffer

Decision Could Take Some Time

Corporation Counsel Harry Gold today said he had forwarded his replying affidavit Wednesday to Supreme Court Justice Kenneth S. MacAffer, who reserved decision Monday on merits of a show cause order issued against procedure of a special Common Council committee named to learn details of a March 22 police board meeting.

It is claimed that information dealing with a statement by Mayor John J. Schwenk to the effect that commissioners who disagreed with him could resign, had leaked from the March 22 meeting.

The special council committee had scheduled a hearing for April 11, but it was stayed when copies of a show cause order, signed by Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn, were served by Attorney Frank Campochiaro on members of the committee.

What Order Asks

Campochiaro represents Thomas Lacue, news director of Radio Station WGHQ, and the show cause order, in part, asks: "Why an order should not be made herein vacating, canceling and setting aside the subpoena served April 10" on Lacue. Campochiaro also contends that the council committee is attempting to act beyond the scope of its authority in conducting a hearing on the police board meeting.

It was indicated today that

Name Salapatis To Conservation Department Post

John C. Salapatis, assistant city engineer, received an appointment as forest surveyor and has been assigned to the Albany office of the Land Acquistion Section of the State Conservation Department. He will leave his post here the early part of June.

Salapatis, a major in the U.S. Air Force Reserve, has been employed in the city engineer's office for the past eight years and was assistant city engineer since his appointment in October 1956.

He took the civil service examination for forest surveyor last May and had the highest mark on a state-wide basis.

Salapatis said he decided Wednesday to accept the post which pays up to $8,435 and opens up new opportunities. He will be under the supervision of Edward West of Shandaken, who was a forest surveyor with the Conservation Department in Kingston.

In November 1959, Salapatis qualified as a licensed land surveyor. As a major in the Air Force during World War II, he was a post engineer in charge of laying out airfields in the United States and overseas.

Major Salapatis at this time last year served a short tour as staff weather officer with the Boston Air Defense, SAGE Direction Center at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh.

Major Salapatis, commissioned as a navigator during World War 2, was assigned to the 96th Bombardment Group, Eighth Air Force in England and participated in 35 bombardment missions over Germany.

During the Korean Conflict, Major Salapatis, a navigator-weather reconnaissance officer, was assigned to the 56th Strategic Reconnaissance Squadron stationed at Yakota Air Force Base, Japan and participated in 53 combat missions over North Korea, also 60 other very long-range weather reconnaissance flights over the North Pacific Ocean, and more than six typhoon tracking and penetration missions.

He holds the following military decorations:

Air Medal with eight oak leaf clusters; ETO Campaign Medal with five battle stars; ATO Campaign Medal; World War 2, Victory Medal; Army of Occupation Medal—Japan; National Defense Service Medal; Korean Service Medal with eight battle stars; Armed Forces Reserve Medal; United National Service Medal; Air Force Longevity Service Award Ribbon, and the New York State Conspicuous Service Cross.

Major Salapatis and his wife, Lillian W. and son, John II, reside at 25 Harding Avenue.

Biggest Political Fight Due

8 Counties Make Up New 35th Area

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—One of the biggest political battles of 1962 is shaping up in one of the state's biggest congressional districts.

A U.S. representative who is also a Democratic candidate for governor, a state senator, an assemblyman and a former assemblyman are involved.

The arena is the new 35th Congressional District, a string of eight counties stretching 180 miles across upstate New York, with one end close to Schenectady, the other close to Rochester.

The district was created by Republican legislative and political leaders in a reapportionment plan passed by a special session of the Legislature last November and signed, without comment, by Republican Gov. Rockefeller.

The Principals

The principals in the election fight are:

U.S. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, whose own district was abolished in the reapportionment. He declared himself a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor but, having had little apparent succes in that venture, is laying the groundwork for a possible bid for the 35th district seat.

Assemblyman Robert M. Quigley, an Ontario County Republican, who has been making an intensive campaign for his party's nomination for congress from the district.

She's Interested

Sen. Janet Hill Gordon of Norwich, while not an official candidate, is nevertheless interested in the GOP endorsement.

Francis J. Souhan of Seneca Falls, a former assemblyman who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1960. For a Democrat in a heavily Republican district, he put up a surprisingly good fight against the veteran incumbent, John Taber of Auburn.

Stratton Invasion Due

Stratton, apparently hedging his political bets, will invade the western, and most heavily Repub-

Military Would Bar Peronists

Troops Ring Argentine Capital During Crisis

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Battle-equipped troops deployed through Buenos Aires today as a new Argentine crisis flared between President Jose Maria Guido and the military leaders who put him into office three weeks ago.

Soldiers and national policemen were posted at key points in the capital to guard against Peronist disturbances as the military chiefs pressed Guido's government to bar the followers of ex-dictator Juan Peron from politics once again. An estimated 5,000 more troops were summoned from the provinces to Buenos Aires.

Guido Stands Firm

Guido was reported standing firm against the military demand, but his new government began to wilt under the same pressures the military put on President Arturo Frondizi before ousting him last month.

Interior Minister Rodolfo Martinez resigned and charged the government was planning to defy the constitution by taking over the provincial governments. Labor Minister Oscar Guiggros hinted that he also would quit.

There was no immediate reaction from the Peronists. But they have repeatedly warned of social disturbances unless the government allows the many Peronist victors in the March 18 elections to take office on schedule May 1. Leaders of the 3-million-member, Peronist-dominated General Confederation of Labor arranged to meet Tuesday to map strategy.

Demands Rejected

Informed sources said Guido turned down the military's demands in a 90-minute meeting Wednesday night with the three service secretaries, the army's Gen. Raul A. Poggi, the navy's Rear Adm. Gaston Clement and the air force's Brig. Jorge Rojas Silveyra.

The military chiefs demanded that Guido:

1. Order federal intervention in the 17 provinces still under local control, replacing their elected governors with federal appointees approved by the military;

2. Nullify the March 18 elections in which the Peronists drew more than 2.5 million votes, elected governors in nine provinces and won 43 seats in the national Chamber of Deputies;

3. Once again ban Peronists and their allies, including the Communists, from political activity; and

4. Scrap labor legislation the military considers too favorable to the Peronist unions.

Districts Urged To Follow State Helping Schools

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The State Education commissioner urged school districts to meet the challenge of this year's record increase in state aid to education by taking "equally strong action in strengthening the support of schools."

The commissioner, Dr. James E. Allen Jr., made public Wednesday a message to about 1,200 school districts throughout the state. His statement is to be read at the districts' annual meetings, which will be held May 1, June 19, or July 10.

$230 Million Increase

The 1962 Legislature authorized an increase of $230 million dollars a year in state aid to schools. The increase will become effective by stages over the next three years and will raise total annual aid to more than $1 billion.

State aid covers about 42 per cent of the total cost of public education in the state. The balance is raised by school districts through property taxes.

Allen said in his message, "We have an opportunity to make

Key Event Is View Of West

His Arrival Marked Beginning of Wall

BERLIN (AP)—The removal of Marshal Ivan S. Konev from command of Soviet troops in East Germany is regarded as a most significant event by Western officials in Berlin. Konev has been replaced by Col. Gen. Ivan I. Yakubovski, the Soviet news agency Tass reported today.

This restores the command situation prevailing before the East Germans built the wall across Berlin last August. Yakubovski was then the commander of the 20 to 22 Soviet divisions in East Germany.

Surprises West

On Aug. 10 it was announced Konev had come out of retirement to take over from Yakubovski. Three days after his appointment, the East Germans began putting up the wall to stop the flight of refugees.

Word of Konev's departure came as a surprise to Western officials here.

Konev has the reputation of being a tough and resolute commander. That was assumed to be the reason for his return to duty when the East was about to launch the perilous operation of sealing off West Berlin. Under his orders two Soviet armored divisions moved into position on Berlin's outskirts while the East Germans began the wall.

Moves May Be Related

Three weeks later President Kennedy sent retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay to Berlin as his personal representative. The termination of Clay's mission was announced by the White House last week. He leaves Berlin May 6.

Thus the two top figures dispatched by the Kremlin and the White House to Berlin at the height of the crisis will have left. In political circles here there was speculation the moves were related, bound up with the present phase of U.S.-Soviet negotiation over Berlin.

Settled Period Possible

Western sources suggested Premier Khrushchev felt he could pull back his marshal after the announcement that President Kennedy was withdrawing his general. The reasoning was that Konev's arrival presaged trouble for Berlin, so his departure could possibly be a promise of a more settled period.

Rummel Writes Thanks To St. Peter's Here

Archbishop Joseph F. Rummel, of New Orleans, now involved in a school integration controversy there, in a recent letter to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph D. Ostermann, pastor of St. Peter's Church, notes that "fifty-five years have elapsed since I was appointed pastor of St. Peter's Church in Kingston."

The letter was in reply to one from Msgr. Ostermann noting that the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church had voted assurance of "whole-hearted support" of the stand taken by Archbishop Rummel in supporting integration.

The letter from Msgr. Ostermann, dated April 10, said:

"Your Excellency:

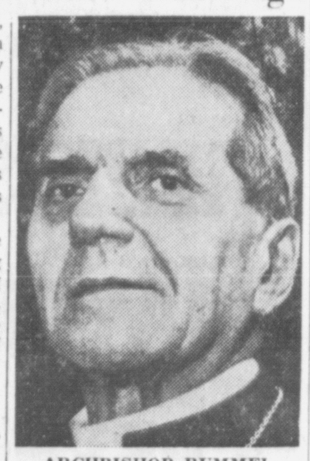

"At the regular meeting of the Holy Name Society assembled at St. Peter's Parish, it was unanimously voted and I was directed to send to Your Excellency the assurance of our whole-hearted support of your courageous stand in the matter of school segregation.

"Your expression of true Christian, as well as genuine American sentiments are a source of inspiration to every true follower of the Master, Whose Precious Blood was shed for the redemption of all mankind, regardless of race, color or creed.

"We feel with pride that you represent the real Christian attitude in this controversy, and we are inspired by your fortitude as a churchman in the face of difficulties, as well as your forthright expression of Catholic principle. God bless you for your edifying example."

The reply Archbishop Rummel said:

"Your very kind message brings vividly to my mind that fifty-five years have elapsed since I was appointed pastor of St. Peter's Church in Kingston, where I spent very many happy years. It is therefore, highly gratifying to know that you and the members of the congregation in their kindness are mindful today of the mannér in which I am endeavoring to discharge my responsibility, not as a Pastor, but as Archbishop of this venerable Diocese of New Orleans.

ARCHBISHOP RUMMEL

"May I request you kindly to extend to the members of your Holy Name Society an expression of my grateful appreciation of their good wishes and especially for their prayers for my welfare. We are going through a period of trial, but it is to me a source of extreme consolation that I have many reasons to believe that the clergy, religious and laity of the Archdiocese are loyal in their devotion and generous in their prayers for an auspicious outcome of the so-called controversy.

"I take for granted that you are enjoying the best of health and offer you my prayerful best wishes for an abundantly blessed Holy Week and a joyful Eastertide. Remember that you will always be welcome in this part of the Deep South."

Stores Remaining Open Till 9 P.M.

Stores in the uptown area will be open tonight, until 9 o'clock in addition to the usual 9 p. m. hour on Friday to accommodate Easter shoppers.

At a meeting of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association on April 9, it was decided to remain open last Monday and tonight until 9 in addition to Friday night.

Many of the stores will close between noon and 3 p. m. on Good Friday so employes can attend church services.

Feels There's Still Time To Halt Atomic Tests

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said today the United States might call off its forthcoming nuclear tests—even at this late date—if the Soviet Union will agree to a workable ban on such weapons.

"If not, no negotiations can be fruitful and I cannot ask the President to postpone the tests," Macmillan told the House of Commons.

Macmillan spoke in reply to questions about Britain's view of the latest proposals made by the nonaligned nations at the disarmament talks in Geneva.

Check Teen Drinking To Ward Off Rioting

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP) — Businessmen and government officials of this Adirondack Mountain resort area are trying to clamp down on teen-age drinking to prevent a recurrence of rioting that marred a holiday last summer.

They remember 1,500 young people ganging up in a screaming mob last Labor Day. Fire hoses had to be used to break up the melee.

Government officials are drafting stricter laws, and businessmen have formed "watchdog" committees to check under-age drinking.

Members of the Warren County Hotel, Restaurant and Liquor Dealers Association, which represents 70 of the county's 210 establishments that have liquor licenses, have declared they will not sell alcoholic beverages to young persons until special identification cards are produced to show customers are over 18.

The association says it will expel members caught selling alcoholic beverages to persons under 18 or to others who have no identification cards and look too young.

Identification cards will be required of all those under 21, whether they are county or non-county residents.

Any persons 18 or over may obtain a card free of charge by presenting a birth certificate and two recent photographs to the county sheriff's office or the Glens Falls Police Department.

In anticipation of the annual influx of vacationers, the governing bodies of Lake George Village and the Town of Caldwell are considering tighter local laws as a preventive measure against trouble.

Although ordinances dealing with mixed groups of young persons in hotel and motel rooms have not been considered, officials have said owners will jeopardize their local licenses, to operate, if registrations are not watched closely.

Specific local laws being drafted would regulate wearing of objectionable attire, littering and crowding into public buildings.

The county started the identification card service three years ago, but this will be the first year an organization has required members to use it.

Trial for Arson Starts Wednesday In County Court

A 31-year-old Kingston man, charged with third degree arson, went on trial Thursday in County Court before Judge Raymond J. Mino and a jury to answer to a charge of setting fire to a car last October 21.

George Van Dyke of 24 Main Street, is charged with setting fire to a 1953 sedan owned by Harry Shultis of 22 Broadway while it was parked off Broadway on Mill Street. The interior of the car was completely burned. Van Dyke allegedly summoned firemen to the scene about 5:30 a. m. after the fire had badly damaged the car.

Had Powder on Hands

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Torraca appears for the prosecution and Joseph Qualtere and Charles Saccoman appears for defendant. Van Dyke denies he set fire to the car and in the opening of the case, Qualtere said Van Dyke would explain away the circumstantial evidence which the prosecution stated would convict the defendant.

First faced with the charge, Van Dyke denied he had turned in the alarm. An examination later allegedly revealed fluorescent powder on the hands of defendant, a powder which is placed on the fire alarm boxes to check persons who turn in an alarm.

All jurors not engaged on the case were excused until Monday at 10 a. m.

No Court Friday

There will be no court tomorrow due to it being Good Friday.

Demskie Sentenced

Ronald Dekskie, 22, who stood charged with grand larceny, first degree; grand larceny, second degree, and petit larceny, arising out of the taking of a car, appeared for sentence. Demskie had entered a plea of guilty to the second degree larceny count of the bill. Francis Martocci, who appeared by assignment, asked the court to consider the fact that defendant had taken the car only for a "joy ride" and had no intention of keeping it. He asked that defendant not be sent to a state prison or reformatory but be given an opportunity to receive treatment. He called attention to the fact that defendant had taken seven cars between Sept. 30 and Oct. 5, 1961, and said he had a "propensity for borrowing cars for joy rides," and that under proper treatment he might be helped to get away from that trend.

County Judge Mino said the defendant appeared to be in need of psychiatric treatment, but he should also be removed from the community as a protection to car owners. He sentenced Demskie to a term of 2½ to 5 years at hard labor in Clinton State Prison at Dannemora and allowed credit for time served in the county jail.

Two cases, The People vs Joseph Ruzzo, and The People vs Joseph Bruno, charges of violating provisions of the gambling laws, were moved over to April 23 at 2 p. m. on motion of Frank Campochiaro, counsel.

On motion of Attorney Francis Martocci the burglary, attempted rape and assault charge against Robert Joseph Fenton was adjourned to April 25 at 10 a. m. He was remanded.

Returning to Wassaic

On motion of District Attorney David W. Corwin the first degree burglary charge against John Wesley Eckert, Rosendale, was dismissed in order that he might be returned to the Wassaic State School. William P. Curran appeared as counsel for Eckert and concurred. It was stated that Eckert was of "low mentality" and had been at the school. If the indictment were dismissed it would be possible to return him to the school for further treatment. Eckert had been led into the alleged burglary by a second defendant, Curran reported. Judge Mino dismissed the indictment and officers from the school were present to return the lad to the school.

Ronald Irving Gardner, charged in two indictments to larceny, will have his case disposed of under the Youthful Offender Statute. S. James Matthews appeared for defendant and asked that the defendant, 17 years of age be so treated. The case was adjourned to chambers on April 27 at 2 p. m.

Speed Costs License Of Lawrence's Son

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Gerald Lawrence, 23-year-old son of Pennylvania's safety - conscious governor, has lost his driver's license for 30 days because of a speeding violation.

The Bureau of Traffic Safety said yesterday young Lawrence's license was suspended effective April 9.

A state police radar team nabbed the governor's son March 5 in Hampden Township, Cumberland County. Officers said he was doing 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone along U.S. 11.

The suspension was unusually fast, according to traffic safety aides. Normally it takes up to six months for such action to be processed by local enforcement officers, state police and the bureau.

Young Lawrence did not ask for a hearing on the suspension.

Traffic safety has been one of the key planks in the administration of Gov. David L. Lawrence. He played a major role in making radar a legal method for prosecuting speeders on Pennsylvania highways.

Whiteport Youth Fined $100 for Getaway Attempt

An 18-year-old Whiteport youth, who, state troopers said tried to avoid arrest on a speeding charge during a radar check on Route 9W, Port Ewen, Wednesday night, was fined $100 or 100 days in jail on a speeding charge.

Trooper L. M. Luongo, Highland, said Richard Geuss, of Whiteport, pleaded guilty before Town of Esopus Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver.

In the last four nights, Highland Troopers Luongo and Jerry Zappolo summoned 62 motorists on speeding charge as the result of Route 9W radar checks. Twelve motorists were ticketed last night, Luongo said.

Troopers said today that Luongo and Zappolo were in charge of a radar check at Port Ewen last night, when a car driven by Geuss was timed at 60 miles an hour in a speed zone. Luongo said he radioed Zappolo, who was on the pickup assignment, and told him to stop Geuss's car.

Luongo said Geuss continued on, turned into a side road and left the car. Troopers said Geuss ran into the woods but was found about an hour later and booked on the speeding charge.

Geuss was ordered held at the Ulster County jail until he paid the fine. The sheriff's office said today the youth paid the fine.

Metal Firm Will Reactivate Plants In N.Y., Oregon

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) —Reynolds Metals Co. has announced plans to reactivate the 20,000-ton production capacity at plants at Massena, N.Y., and Troutdale, Ore.

The program was announced yesterday by president Richard S. Reynolds Jr. at the annual stockholders' meeting.

He also said a price rise in the basic metal could be avoided by full production and concentration on higher-volume aluminum markets.

The company announced higher sales and earnings for the first three months of the year. Earnings were put at $6,022,000 on sales of $136,813,000 compared with earnings of $5,271,000 on sales of $108,949,000 a year ago.

3 Chief Ways to Teach It

Reading Is the Real Rock On Which Education Rests

BY FRANKLIN H. HAZARD
Associate Superintendent of Schools

"If your public schools never did anything for your youngster but teach him to read, and at the same time develop in him a thirst for and a love of books, then they would have given him the basic foundation for an education." This was the way Miss Ethel M. Schafer put it as she paused for a moment during a recent lesson in reading in her first grade at School No. 8.

Miss Schafer is a very energetic and dedicated person who has devoted a number of years to teaching reading to first graders. Each September some twenty-odd youngsters about six years of age troop into her room, functionally illiterate, and the following June move on to second grade having mastered several readers.

"Reading is truly the rock Miss Schafer said, on which the entire structure of education is built," "with it, the whole world lies before your child. Without it, he is a prisoner of himself, constrained by only those things he can see, hear, feel, taste or smell."

Why Don't the Experts Agree?

All the experts seem to agree on the ultimate goal, which is to teach youngsters to read. Where they seem to differ greatly is on how to teach; how the job should be done.

Removing all the fancy names, there are only three chief ways to teach reading. First, there is the breaking of words into parts by their sounds (phonics), second there is the using a word many times until it is memorized (word method), and the third is by giving groups of words in everyday phrases the child is familar with (phrase method).

Regardless of the arguments of each school of thought, no one system is the right one for all children. Miss Schafer and the other teachers of the Kingston system actually use all three in the classroom, fitting the proper method to the child.

The Secret of Reading

The real secret of reading, in the opinion of Miss Schafer, can be described in one short word—fun. She feels that no child will learn to read well if reading is not pleasant. "Nagging and constant criticism can make it a chore. To learn to read well, a child must want to read."

Teachers today are very interested in what they call "reading readiness." As early as the kindergarten, the teacher begins getting a child ready to read. Listening to stories read, looking at picture books, trying to imitate his mother or father or older brothers or sisters—all these build up in the youngster an enthusiasm to read. This, devoid of fancy terms, is what teachers mean by the reading readiness program.

The Child Begins to Read

Just as children begin to walk and talk at different ages, so do they learn to read at different ages. Some can read at the beginning or middle of the first grade. Some do not read until the end of the first grade and even later. Once in a while, some can read before they come to school. One thing that the experts seem to agree on is that forcing them beyond their ability does more harm than good.

The child's first real reading, in Miss Schafer's first grade, comes when the class tells a simple story to the teacher. He sees his spoken words then changed into written marks on a chalkboard. They take on real meaning when he reads them back.

Gradually the teacher has him read from books. And gradually he learns more and more, and books in turn become more and more interesting. Later, at the fourth grade level, he finds the dictionary is not just a book, but a real friend for life.

Can Parents Help?

Perhaps the best advice to parents, according to Miss Schafer, is to enjoy a good book yourself. She contends that a youngster who comes from a home where books are liked and aprreciated stands a good chance of becoming a good reader.

Parents are advised to read often to their children, verse as well as prose. "Children love the swing and lilt of poetry," she contends.

She further advises a little library of his own for each youngster. An occasional book makes a wonderful present. Take him to the library to browse and borrow others. Subscribing to children's magazines provides a younster with a thrill when the postman leaves magazines for him.

Teachers caution parents to allow the child to read to them, when they begin to read—and to show their appreciation.

What to Do in Difficulty?

Miss Schafer has definite advice for parents of children who have difficulty reading. "Don't threaten or browbeat him. That may only make him tense and anxious and actually slow his speed of reading.

"It may be that a physical examination can help. Your youngster may need glasses or have some hearing or speech troubles which interfere with his learning to read.

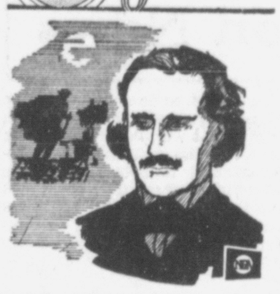

"It is important to remember that not all children will read equally well. We know from experience that some will always get more from reading than others.

"Whenever in doubt, always confer with his teacher or his principal. They are always there to help you."

READING IS FUN—These pupils are discovering the thrill of reading under the direction of Miss Ethel Schafer, first-grade teacher at School Number 8. She attributes the success of her pupils is due to making reading a joyful experience.

matter of Fact

The detective story as we know it was born in the pages of "Graham's Magazine," a Philadelphia journal, in April 1841 with the publication of a short story, "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," by Edgar Allan Poe. It is said that this story contains a complete manual of the theory and practice of criminal detection.

Along Capitol Corridors

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Any revision of the controversial Condon-Wadlin Law must retain the basic premise that public employes have no right to strike and will be fired if they do, Republican legislative leaders agree.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino commeated in separate interviews as a study was launched to determine what changes are needed to make the law workable.

Based on GOP's Hold

Their comments were based on the assumption the Republicans will still be in control of the Legislature when the matter comes up next year.

The study was ordered by Gov. Rockefeller as the result of the recent one-day strike by school teachers in New York City.

No disciplinary action is planned, pending the review of the law.

Invoking the law against the 20,000 striking teachers could cripple the city's giant school system as effectively as a strike, unless they were fired only for a holiday period and were willing to return under penalty terms.

The law provides that a worker who strikes "shall thereby abandon and terminate his appointment or employment."

The worker may be re-instated on condition that he receive no pay increases for three years and remains on probation for five years.

Both Favor Changes

As a probationer, the employe would have no tenure or job security and could be summarily discharged.

Rockefeller and the GOP leaders have agreed that changes should be made to make the Condon-Wadlin law more workable.

A major criticism is that the penalties applying to re-instated workers are too harsh, that local officials do not enforce the law for this reason and, therefore, the law does not serve its purpose.

Under the new approach, penalties would be lessened but the law would be enforced.

In other words, there would be more realistic disciplinary measures established.

The Rockefeller study committee, still to be named, will report its recommendations to the 1963 Legislature. The committee is expected to propose a system of grievance procedures that would be designed to resolve disputes before they reached strike-talk proportions.

Demos for Repeal

Legislation to set up grievance machinery and to ease existing penalties for rehired workers died in the 1961 and 1962 legislative sessions, after disputes over details.

Sen. William Condon, R-Westchester, a co-sponsor of the original law, introduced the measure proposing revisions.

Democrats, on the other hand, advocate outright repeal of Condon-Wadlin and shifting of the emphasis to effective grievance and arbitration machinery.

The State AFL-CIO also favors repeal of the Condon-Wadlin Act. A spokesman said some leaders of the labor organization had indicated from time to time they might favor a no-strike law covering policemen, firemen and other government employes providing emergency services.

Carlin, urging retention of the basic premise of the Condon-Wadlin act, said, however, that "you've got to maintain the right of government not to be subject to a strike."

He said a duty not to strike should be a condition of employment assumed by government workers when they accepted their jobs.

Mahoney said that any discussions of revisions to the Condon-Wadlin act would have to begin with the assumption the no-strike ban would be maintained.

Jump Training Is Stressed by AF, Even for Generals

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force is developing a new breed, including a few flying generals, qualified to jump into battle along with Army paratroopers.

They are officers and men serving in the headquarters of the new unified Army-Air Force Strike Command and as air controllers whose job it is to direct fighter plane support operations by radio from front line positions on the ground.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, has let it be known he wants as many as possible of his people attached to the new command to take the rugged jump training at the Army's Airborne School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Lt. Gen. Bruce K. Holloway, 49, Air Force deputy commander of the Strike Command, recently won his Army paratrooper wings by completing five qualifying jumps.

The Strike Command, based at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida, was created last September to weld combat-ready land and supporting air units into task forces which can be moved swiftly to any part of the world in an emergency.

At least an advance party of the headquarters likely would jump with the airborne troops on a combat mission.

Army Gen. Paul D. Adams, chief of the Strike Command, is a qualified jumper.

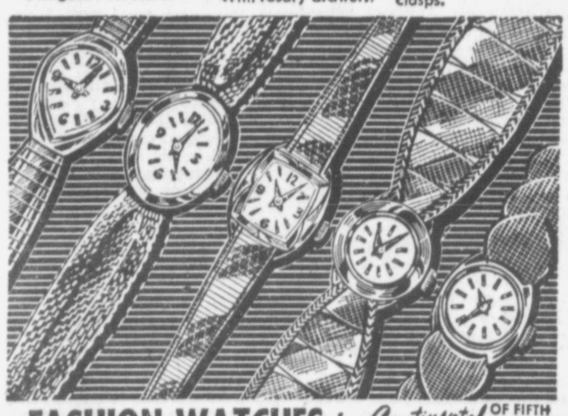

The 300-man headquarters staff is divided equally between Air Force and Army officers and enlisted men.

So far in the young program, 85 officers and men of the headquarters staff and the communications unit have passed the jump test.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 19, 1962

OUR ALLY, IRAN

The United States visit of the Shah of Iran serves to remind Americans, as the shah doubtless intended, that Iran is one of our key allies because of that country's strategic position on the periphery of the Soviet Union. Iran's claims for American support, both military and economic, are at least as strong as those of most of the governments to which we are giving aid.

Iran's need for help also is extraordinary. This ancient kingdom is making progress under a young ruler with a strong sense of duty to his people, but to a great degree the lives of those people are patterned after the life of centuries ago rather than cast in the 20th century mold. In some respects Tehran is a modern capital city, but as one moves out into the villages one also goes backward in time.

Mohammed Riza Pahlevi is intensely conscious of this. He has made vigorous and sustained efforts to bring about land reform, taking the lead by divesting himself of many villages which he inherited with the throne his father seized a generation ago. He has even had some success in forcing other wealthy landowners to turn over some of their holdings to the peasants who have been feudally dominated by these powerful families.

In this he has been aided by his tough-minded premier, Ali Amini, himself a member of the wealthy land-holding group. Dr. Amini and the shah have thus far been successful in surviving attacks both from the entrenched right and the Communist-led left. Although progress is not swift enough to satisfy some dissidents, including many U.S.-educated young men, the present government of Iran is enlightened and is moving in the right direction. It deserves U.S. encouragement and support.

TIDY AT HOME

Sam is a fastidious man. He likes to have his socks and underwear stacked just so in the dresser drawers; he keeps tools hung neatly above his basement workbench; he can't abide untrimmed shrubbery or a lawn that needs mowing. Sam's wife Ella is like that, too. She won't stand for toys on the living room floor, or magazines untidily piled on the coffee table, or an unwashed saucer in the kitchen.

Sam and Ella took the children for a ride the other afternoon; matter of fact, it was their first picnic of the spring.

Sam likes a cigar when he's driving. He sniffed the cigar with pleasure as he tossed the wrapper out the car window. After a few miles, inevitably, little Tom and his big sister, who's nine, got hungry. Sam stopped for hot dogs, and remembered to get a handful of napkins. After the hot dogs were gone, Ella made good use of the napkins and then flipped them out the car window. Tom hadn't quite drunk his malted, but when he did Ella tossed out the container.

The picnic was fun. Afterwards, there was quite a bit of debris—beer cans, pop bottles, the box the hamburger buns came in, and so on—but the nearest waste container was a good 50 yards away. Sam pushed the stuff into the fireplace, figuring the park men would clean it up some time.

Then Sam and Ella and the kids went back to their neat, tidy home. It was a great day—a great day for litterbugs.

THE MONEY FOREST

A special truck recently was dispatched from the U.S. mint in Philadelphia, carrying one million silver dollars for an exhibit at the Seattle World's Fair.

A lot of interesting things surrounded the preparation of this trip. Not the least of these was the fact that it took one man 18 days to count the million dollars.

If we were to use President Kennedy's newest budget, a proposed $92 billion affair, as a measuring rod, we could say that while the fellow was counting the million the federal government was spending 4,536 times that much.

It counts hard, but it goes as if blown on the wind.

Hold Executive Suite Skin Test

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It was all working out precisely as it was supposed to.

For the executives sent to this conference table by their various firms, this was just another one of those dull business seminars—or would be if the scheduled speaker ever showed up. But he was 45 minutes late now, and you could see the anger and resentment bubbling up.

One vice president was trying to organize the group. Another stared at a daydream on the ceiling. Two sales managers and a controller were drifting toward a fight . . . yes, it was all working out beautifully.

This kind of planned mess is called Executive Sensitivity Training. Sessions like it are in progress many places on the U. S. business scene today as our economy tries another method to meet its growing demand for new executives.

* * *

But just what sensitivity training is and does is somewhat hard to define. In theory, however, it works like this:

Leaderless, non-directed meetings among executives create a climate of tension and discomfort.

True personalities emerge and sensitive feelings are exposed for all to see, diagnose and discuss.

Once your colleagues have pointed out your behavior flaws, you have the insight necessary to change your methods and become more influential—the vital quality of the executive.

Consequently, a trained psychologist is camouflaged in the group to throw personality-revealing questions into the discussion ("Why do you scratch your nose when you're on the spot?" "Did you really think his joke was that funny?").

* * *

In the end, one executive may be diagnosed by the group as behaving like the laboratory scientist he used to be. Another may be told he's responding to people's appearances rather than their deeper needs. A third may find he's behaving like a slide rule and rule book.

But whether or not sensitivity training theory makes good in practice is almost an academic question.

Today, at least 20 universities offer sensitivity seminars. Management training centers and private consulting firms are setting up sensitivity workshops. Major firms like Standard Oil of New Jersey, Western Electric in New York, and Stop and Shop in Boston have their own sensitivity laboratories.

"No, we can't measure the effects of our seminars," one specialist says. "But at least we're shining some light on the path for the scientists, technologists and production men who are needed in executive suite.

"At least we're showing them that they're dealing with people and they have to think twice before giving orders."

* * *

But if sensitivity trainers can't evaluate their effects, graduates of the seminars have a few definite things to say.

Those in favor say it has opened their minds to the people around them, making for understanding and closer working relationships.

Those opposed say the training is not only unnecessary but also dangerous, capable of stripping a man of the defenses he has built over a lifetime and leaving him a deflated self-questioner—useless as an executive.

One business reporter who attended a series of sensitivity seminars says he doesn't really know what he had been through.

"It was strange," he reports. "So strange that I've enrolled in a university to take graduate courses in psychology."

Just Doesn't Make Sense To Stop Drinking Milk

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

These days, almost everything that happens seems to have far-reaching effects, often in the most unlikely places. President Kennedy's rocking chair is news in Moscow. Premier Krushchev's tantrums disturb the world. But never before, to my knowledge, has medical theory upset a basic industry.

The industry is the milk business. The theory is that people can be slimmer and defer hardening of the arteries by cutting down on milk drinking.

According to figures just released by our Agricultural Department, American consumption of milk fell 35 million quarts last year as compared with the consumption of the preceding year. To be sure we did put away some 26.4 billion quarts. But, if the trend toward diminished milk consumption continues, we taxpayers will have to pay more than the $300 million per year than we are now paying to support dairying.

High milk prices and fear that nuclear explosions have contaminated milk with strontium are regarded as possible factors in this crisis in our diary industry. However, the President and his advisers seem to believe that dieting and fear of cholesterol are largely responsible for the greatly lessened consumption of milk in our country. Since none of us enjoys paying higher taxes, perhaps we might make an "agonizing re-appraisal" of the cholesterol theory.

While it is true that "hardening of the arteries" is due in part to the presence in the arterial walls of deposits that contain cholesterol, that cholesterol is not the same cholesterol we eat and drink.

It is cholesterol that is formed in the body from almost any foodstuffs we happen to take in. As I've pointed out on many previous occasions, no farmer in his right mind would feed a cholesterol-containing product to his cattle or pigs. Yet these are the livestock that provide us with milk fat and bacon.

Especially when we overeat, many of us share with cattle and pigs the capacity for manufacturing cholesterol. As you may know from your own observations, there are certain families that consistently produce "fatties." Indeed, in some of these families, fat appears to deposit in some easily recognizable characteristic fashion: double chins, abdominal aprons, heavy thighs or ballooning buttocks.

These fat deposits, like cholesterol deposits in arterial walls, are products of manufacturing processes within the body. If fat and cholesterol deposits were merely made up of dietary fat and cholesterol, they would be products of an outside process. You would expect to become muscular by eating steak—that's about as sensible.

In this light, as you can see, the way to prevent and/or reduce the cholesterol content of the blood and cholesterol deposits within body tissues is merely to cut down on the total quantity of basic foods that normally grace the table of the American family.

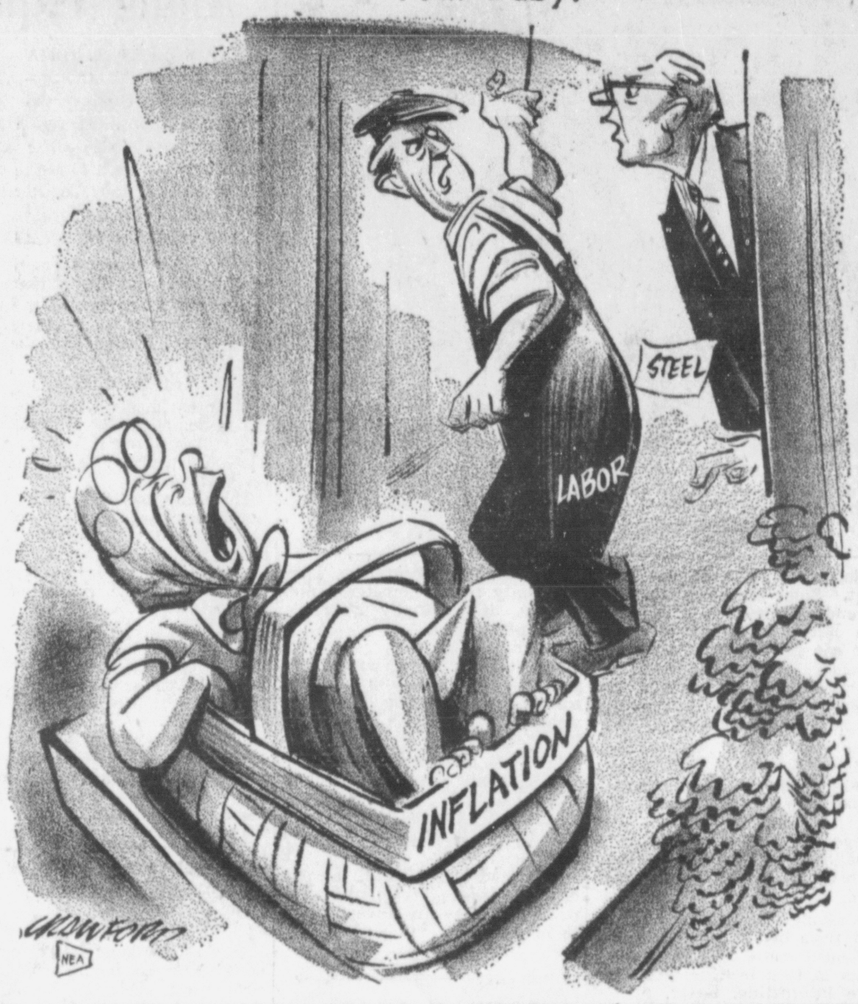

It makes no sense to cut back only on milk, the almost perfect food on which we were reared at our mothers' breasts.

However, if you think otherwise there's nothing to stop you from further penalizing the American dairyman and necessitating a further increase in your taxes.

"It's Your Baby!"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — There was a lot more than the three-tenths-of-a-cent-per-pound increase and decrease in the price of steel involved in the controversy between President John F. Kennedy and U.S. Steel Board Chairman Roger M. Blough.

Even though the three-day showdown fight between big government and big business has been suspended by an armistice, several fundamental questions of economics and politics remain:

How free is the free enterprise system to be?

What is government's proper role toward business?

Are the national interest and the consuming public interest more important than maintenance of the free enterprise system — meaning the rights of free management and free labor to do as they please in their own interests?

"THE PUBLIC BE DAMNED" philosophy is now dead. It was given this name 79 years ago by railroad empire builder William Henry Vanderbilt when he was asked if his New York Central wouldn't have to put on a luxury train to match a Pennsylvania flyer.

The fact that these two railroads are now negotiating a merger just to survive indicates how times have changed. Survival is also a principal issue in the new wage and working conditions contract now being negotiated between the railroad management and the railway brotherhoods under the changed conditions of reduced employment through technological and mergers.

There is no such thing as a completely free economy any more. Employers can't dictate wages or prices at will, labor can't strike for all it can get, the public being damned in between.

Over the years government has imposed restraints on business monopolies and chicanery, on complete irresponsibility and strong-armed lawlessness by organized labor.

MANY PEOPLE will argue that neither group of restraints has gone far enough yet. But enlightened capitalists and labor statesmen have appeared from time to time. They have recognized the futility of strike violence and price conspiracy alike. And they have acted accordingly, the public interest being served first.

In the recent steel wage-contract negotiations there was every appearance that capital and labor leaders had grown up and matured. At government insistence they had settled their differences several months before the existing contract expired.

A costly strike was avoided by labor and business dislocation was avoided by management. The public interest was further served by an agreement which did not freeze the wage cost level but did not yield to inflationary pressures too much.

Everybody seemed happy. Government, labor, management and the whole business community all broke into spring songs of peace and continued uninflated prosperity.

THIS CONDITION has now been restored temporarily, at least, after big steel marched its prices up the hill in defiance of government and marched them down again in deference to the national interest and public opinion, with a strong assist from a gratifying manifestation of independence by the Inland and Kaiser steel companies operating under the best traditions of a competitive, free enterprise system.

Before these events of the past week, the Kennedy administration had been suspect of anti-business inclinations. It had defended itself against these charges on the grounds that its first concern was increasing economic growth rates, creating full employment, reducing the impact of business recessions and industry-crippling strikes.

Before Congress now is a portfolio of far-reaching legislation affecting business. It includes tax revision with new incentive and depreciation allowances, foreign trade expansion with other incentives and protection against unfair competition from abroad, a complete overhaul of transportation to operate space communication satellites.

With the steel price controversy resolved, the Congress can legislate on these issues in a calmer atmosphere. If decisions had been taken in the climate of a government - business - labor - public interest war, everyone would have suffered. But big business as its own worst enemy would have suffered most.

The Significant Questions Not Answered by Kennedy

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy tried in his press conference to "butter up" American business, including the steel companies. He said there was no ill will toward anybody and that there was no room on either side for "any feelings of hostility or vindictiveness."

But, unfortunately, the President nullified much of what he said when he refused to answer a reporter's question as to how he would treat labor unions if they do the same thing the steel companies did—namely, if they make demands for wage increases that go beyond the Administration's formula for a hold the line" or stabilization program.

The reporter's question was as follows."

"Assuming that a price increase in steel would eventually be necessary and justified, do you have any thoughts as to how this price increase should be reached? And, secondly, if some major labor union made excessive demands for wage increases, would you move as sharply against that union as you did last week against steel?"

The exact record of what the President said in reply was as follows:

"Well, to take the second part first, we had worked very closely with the steel union in an attempt to persuade them that it was in their interest and the country's interest to meet the standards set by the Council of Economic Advisers, and it was done. And that is why this matter came into particularly sharp focus last week."

Mr. Kennedy's avoidance of an answer regarded as particularly significant, because it means that the Administration intends to continue to put pressure on business and threaten it with lawsuits and the withdrawal of orders by the Defense Department, but will exercise no analogues pressure on the labor unions.

No Real Power

Mr. Kennedy pleaded that he doesn't really have the "power" to restrain wage increases. Actually, he has no legal power to restrain price rises either. Mr. Kennedy seemed to sidestep the point made by one of the reporters that by holding the line, he was actually fixing prices. The reporter said:

"Some of your critics feel that you set prices, or have gone into the field of price control by executive fiat in the steel situation, and further that this sets a precedent which you would have to follow in future situations. Do you feel that you have set a precedent—that, as these situations arise, you would again have to invoke this sort of power?"

Mr. Kennedy argued that "everyone is quite aware of what the powers are of the government, and the limitation on those powers." He then added:

"But I have not suggested that—our power—that we have powers to set, or that those powers would be desirable, to set prices or to set wages."

The President insisted he merely attempted to put before the parties on both sides the importance of public interest, and he did say that the inter-relationship of various factors makes the public interest "mandatory" in these matters. He put it this way:

"Public interest is very definitely involved, but in asserting the public interest we have always recognized the proper limitations of that—of the power of the government to enforce any collective bargaining agreement. We do not have that power. That power has not been given to us."

Mr. Kennedy nevertheless did not hestitate last week to use all the pressure and power of the United States government to force the steel companies to recede from their announcement of a price increase. There is no power to do this under the law, but he applied it nevertheless. The Defense Department withheld orders promptly and ignored the principle of competitive bids by simply shifting contracts without requiring formal submission. Coincidently, a Federal grand jury investigation of certain steel companies was ordered.

Mr. Kennedy's remarks were particularly unsettling, however, when he discussed future profits and productivity. He gave the impression that shareholders should be content with a record of high returns on their investment during the last 10 years. He said nothing about the current situation, in which the value of the stock held by U.S. Steel shareholders is approximately $63, compared to $108 two years ago.

Mr. Kennedy also seems to think the steel industry would get a $500 million increase in profits when steel production goes up to 85 to 90 per cent of per cent of capacity. But nobody in the steel business expects any such result as this for a long time to come. In fact, the realistic experts among them say that what's important is not the total amount of profits, but the return per shareholder. They also say that a better way to measure progress is by the rate of return on sales which the steel companies receive. The industry figures show that in the last four or five years these percentages have been going steadily downhill.

A newsworthy piece of information in the President's press conference was his admission that at no time during the Administration's discussion with the steel companies, before the decision was reached to raise prices, was there any assurance given that there would or would not be a price increase. One of the reporters had asked whether such assurances were given, either directly or indirectly, because the day the contract was ratified the President had stated that the settlement was "non-inflationary." Mr. Kennedy replied finally that they "were not asked and they were not given."

The foregoing is an example of what American business is up against. The President himself hasn't revealed clearly just what happened in his attempts to get a "non-inflationary" settlement, or the kind of pressure he used in coercing the steel companies to withdraw their price increase.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Received a charming picture postal card from Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley, granddaughter of John Burroughs of West Park. She had written a book recently about her grandfather called "John Burroughs: Naturalist" which can be had at the Kingston City Library and no doubt all other local libraries as well as bought in book stores around the country.

The colored picture postal card shows the stone fireplace in Slabsides, near West Park where, John Burroughs, the naturalist, as host, cooked meals for such guests as, President of the United States, Theodore Roosevelt, who came there on his Presidential yacht; Henry Ford and many other world celebrities.

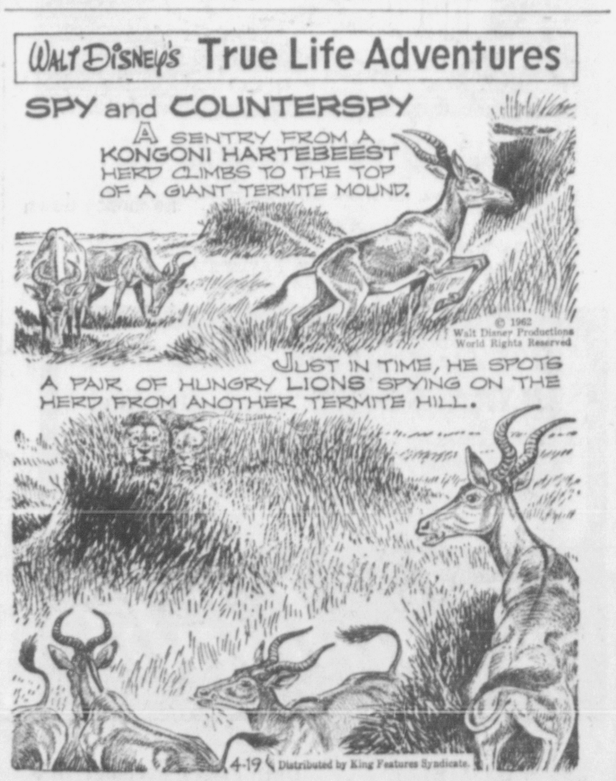

I do not remember studying John Burroughs in school, although I went to school in Port Ewen and Kingston. The children I have asked recently about any books do not seem to know about him, yet reading his books or his granddaughter's book about him is a pleasure besides giving you precious information about your own birds, weather conditions, flowers, trees and everything else that sings, and grows and lives about us.

Some time ago I bought a nice cloth covered Riverside Series book, called Wake-Robin, by John Burroughs (Houghton, Mifflin and Co. Riverside Press, Cambridge 1901). The first printing was in 1871, then 1876, 1895, 1899, and the one I have which shows you how popular it was and no doubt is today, especially among those who study birds. (Ornithology). By that time he had many other books out, like Winter Sunshine, Locusts and Wild Honey, Fresh Fields, Indoor Studies, Signs and Seasons and Riverby.

I received the following note from Charles A. Bowers, of 79 Abeel Street, Kingston since mention of Burroughs items. "I just ran across this item, of the Kingston Daily Leader, of March 10, 1917, of Mrs. Kelley's grandmother from West Park, that you have been writing of lately and I thought of sending it to you as I read your column every day. Also another item from the Kingston Express, Jan. 15, 1914, and I wonder if any readers remember this march, and wonder if they came by way of Port Ewen."

Item of March 10, 1917 from Kingston Daily Leader reads: "The funeral of Mrs. Ursula Burroughs, wife of John Burroughs, the noted naturalist, was held with services Thursday morning at eleven o'clock at 'Riverby,' West Park. The services were remarkably simple and were largely attended by numerous relatives and friends. The Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase officiated at the service, reading the scriptures and giving the prayers. There was a beautiful and numerous variety of floral tributes, consisting of many standing pieces and bouquets. The interment was at Olive. Coroner E. A. Kelley was in charge of the funeral arrangements." As you will notice, this little item was saved some 45 years, of Mrs. Kelley's grandmother's funeral.

We are all so excited about what goes on many miles away, while history and adventure in living is going right about us to which we do not pay any attention. We should at least study the famous men of our locality, in case strangers ask us about them, we will know a little something. I think a nice time to talk about John Burroughs is when the robins first come out, for he made them famous with his book. If you want to know about homefolks of around here, read Elizabeth Burroughs Kelley's book on her grandfather, "John Burroughs: Naturalist."

Governor Signs Bill on Handling Work Grievance

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller says public employes "must necessarily renounce the right to strike."

At the same time, he says, government at all levels must "improve personnel practices and grievance procedures."

The governor commented Wednesday in signing a bill that establishes procedures for handling non-financial grievances of employes of municipalities and school districts that employ 100 or more. The law does not cover New York City.

Rockefeller made no reference to last week's one-day strike by half of New York City's 40,000 school teachers. They struck for higher wages.

After the strike, the governor, had advised against invoking the state's Condon-Wadlin law, which provides for the automatic dismissal of government employes who strike.

Orders Study

He said the law's penalties were too harsh and announced that he had ordered a study to determine whether the law should be changed.

The Condon-Wadlin Law provides that workers who are reinstated after they have gone on strike may not receive pay increases for three years. They are placed on probation, without tenure, for five years.

Under the bill establishing grievance procedures, municipalities and school districts are required to set up, by Oct. 1, 1963, a three-step method by which employes may air their complaints.

A grievance first would be submitted to the employe's immediate superior, then to his department head, and finally to a three-member grievance board.

Under the procedure, grievances will be limited to working conditions and rules. Grievances involving wages, retirement benefits and disciplinary action will continue to be handled in accordance with other laws.

The new law was recommended by the State Civil Service Employes Association.

Chamber Slates Breakfast Date, Open to Public

Sam Pepper, president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, today extended an invitation to all citizens interested in area development and progress to attend the community breakfast next Wednesday at 8 a. m.

The special breakfast committee, headed by Joseph J. Benjamin, said that this breakfast is Kingston's participation in Chamber of Commerce week as proclaimed by Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller. Kingston's Mayor John J. Schwenk has also proclaimed Wednesday, April 25 as Chamber of Commerce Day.

In extending this invitation today Pepper also said that the breakfast will be followed by a short program with adjournment promptly at 9 o'clock. Food service will start at 7:50 to insure all being served before the program starts. Tickets will be available at the door but reservations must be made in advance.

Pepper also reported that it is planned to hold regular breakfast meetings for all members and their guests in the future. Many members have said they would like to have more frequent general meetings. This method will also be used to publicly recognize the contributions made by individuals toward community progress and development.

Arson Ruled Out In Chatham Fires

Claverack State Police said Wednesday night their investigation of fires that destroyed two barns in North Chatham Tuesday night, had uncovered no evidence of arson.

Barns were leveled by fire of undetermined origin on the Leland Griswold and Thomas Dullaghan farms at North Chatham. Fire Chief Ronald Clapper of North Chatham estimated the loss at the Griswold farm at $5,000 and reported the loss at the Dullaghan farm was about $40,000.

Firemen said 10 cows perished in the Dullaghan barn fire.

More than 100 volunteer firemen assisted at the scene of the Dullaghan barn fire.

State Police Investigators William Wolfe and Fred Potts investigated the fires because of the closeness of the two farms.

Cooperative Bids Are Planned by Dutchess Schools

Officials of five Dutchess County school districts have made arrangements to ask for cooperative bidding on fuel oil and gasoline supplies for use in the districts in the next school year.

Attending a recent meeting at which the arrangements were approved were representatives of the following school districts: Hyde Park, Wappingers, Poughkeepsie, Arlington and Beacon.

Arthur J. Galuppo, business manager for the Poughkeepsie Board of Education said the school district officials believed that when the plan has worked out some of the initial problems other districts will enter the agreement with the five districts.

Recently the Hyde Park, Arlington and Wappingers school district officials approved a plan for cooperative buying 20 school buses at a savings of $25,000.

Galuppo said there was encouraging discussions at the recent meeting on specifications for fuel oil bids, because each district had its own specifications which had to be developed into a plan suitable for all.

Galuppo said another meeting of the school district representatives will be held April 26 to complete details fo the cooperative bidding for gasoline and fuel oil. At that meeting a proposal for joint purchasing of cafeteria supplies will be discussed .

Court to Hear Youth Whose Car Hit Pole

A 17-year-old Highland youth, whose car was involved in a traffic accident at Springtown Road and Mountain Rest Road, New Paltz, last Saturday is slated to appear April 27 before Town of New Paltz Justice of the Peace John B. Tenaglia on a charge of driving at a speed not reasonable and prudent.

The summons was issued by Highland state police to Anthony Stellar Jr., Reservoir Road, Highland.

Trooper James Kaljian said Stellar lost control of the car, which knocked down a utility pole, disrupting electric service to 605 customers in the New Paltz area.

Stellar and three other Highland high school students, passengers in the car, were injured and treated at St. Francis' Hospital, Poughkeepsie. Passengers were Anthony Brennie, 17, Vineyard Avenue; Vincent Lauletta, 17, North Road, and John Cappillino, 16, Meadow Street, all of Highland.

Partially Blind Man Critically Injured in Mishap

A 79-year-old partially blind East Windham man was critically injured at 11 a. m. Wednesday, when struck by an automobile on Route 23 near his home.

Leeds State Police said Francis Eugene Butts, of East Windham, was taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital. His condition was described as critical. Troopers said Butts suffered compound fractures of the right arm and leg, possible skull fracture, lacerations of the head and face and other injuries.

The car involved was driven by Miss Gertrude Viola Gallogly, 20, of 1575 Odell Street, the Bronx. She was on her way home for the Easter vacation from Oneonta State College of Education, where she is a student.

According to a report of Trooper J. P. Mills of Hunter, the pedestrian stepped from behind a parked truck on the north shoulder of Route 23 about a mile west of East Windham. Troopers said he walked into the path of the car, which the driver swerved in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid hitting the man, who was struck by the left side of the vehicle and knocked to the pavement.

Rosendale Flood Plans Go Out For More Approval

The Office of the Chief of Army Engineers, Washington, D. C., notified Congressman J. Ernest Wharton today that plans for the Rosendale Flood Control program have now been sent to the State of New York and State of New Jersey for their approval and to the Department of Interior, Department of Agriculture, Department of Commerce and Health, Education and Welfare.

The Department of the Interior would be interested in pollution.

These departments must approve and return the plans with any comments to the chief engineers. The State of New Jersey must be joined in this matter since the waterway under consideration is also in that State.

Congressman Wharton has been most desirous of expediting the program and has so informed the Chief of Army Engineers.

LL Registration is Scheduled Tuesday, Friday at Town Hall

Henry Miller, president of the Woodstock Little League, has made known that the first scheduled event of the season is a meeting of all interested adults at the Fire Hall on Friday, April 20, 8 p. m.

Player registration is scheduled next Tuesday, April 24, at the Reynolds House from 7 to 9 p. m. A second opportunity for player registration will be Saturday afternoon, April 28, from 1 to 3 p. m. Tryouts are also scheduled at the same time for boys who have not previously played Little League baseball in Woodstock.

All boys, whether they have played previously or not, are required to register. They must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

The first week in May has been reserved for practice sessions and team managers will supply specific information for their teams. Opening day at the ball park is scheduled for Monday, May 7, 6 p. m. It will be preceded by the traditional march to the field from the firehouse. Details will be made known.

Uniforms must be turned in to Roger Jones, Vice president in charge of equipment, at the Woodstock Sport Shop, before May 1.

Contributions to help sustain the cost of the coming season should be mailed to treasurer Irwin Arlt.

There is an opportunity for boys 13-15 years of age to play in a Babe Ruth League in an adjoining community. This can be made possible only if there are interested fathers who will sponsor such a venture. Those interested are asked to attend the organizational meeting Friday.

There are several major positions to be filled and there will also be a ladies auxiliary formed at the meeting.

Shade Trees Valued at More Than One Million

At the annual meeting of the Woodstock Tree Trust on Wednesday, Apr. 11, it was disclosed that the vlaue of the shade trees on 16.7 miles of public roads amounts to $1,100,000. These were the most important sections of the total 121 miles of state, county and town roads within the township.

The figures are part of a comprehensive tree inventory survey contracted last summer by the Woodstock Tree Trust with the Bartlett Tree Expert Co. The valuation basis used was the Comparative Farmland Acreage Valuation, which is one of the most conservative valuation basis.

According to R. I. Simmons, regional manager of the company, figures up to five times higher would be applicable in legal and insurance cases. The figure of $1,100,000 works out to $66,000 per mile or an average of $294 a tree. The number of trees inventories was 3,742 and their diameter ranges from six inches to 42 inches.

J. C. vanRijn, who opened the meeting, said the figures showed dramatically the importance for the Town Board to make a start with caring for the trees and thereby protecting their valuable public asset. The New York State Town Law provides specifically for the Town to engage in the protection and planting of public shade trees, and the Woodstock Town Board has this year instituted an official Town Shade Tree Fund.

Has Contributed Money

In order to encourage the Town in this direction and allow emergency care to be extended to a number of the most important and neglected large shade trees along Route 212 in the hamlet of Woodstock, the Tree Trust has contributed $1,000 to the fund and work is underway to treat 58 of the large sugar maples between the country club and Orchard Lane.

As a small start in actual planting of replacement and of new trees, the town has furthermore recently contracted the planting of three new sugar trees in front of Town Hall and the Town Hall Annex.

The Tree Trust plans to investigate available means to harness the cooperation of the state and county departments towards the conservation and planting of valuable trees along the public roads and thereby protect and enhance one of the assets of the township.

Registration Set Apr. 25 for School Board Election

Members of the Woodstock League of Women Voters remind those who have not registered for the May 2 school board election that they may do so on Wednesday, Apr. 25, from 2 to 8 p. m. Registration will be held at the Woodstock, West Hurley and Boiceville Schools and the Shandaken Town Hall.

There are four vacancies to be filled and there are more than four candidates running for the offices. To better acquaint voters with these candidates, the League of Women Voters will have a program over Station WGHQ on Saturday, Apr. 28, 4:45 p. m., giving the background and qualifications of each candidate.

At the same time, the members will distribute fact sheets with information on the candidates plus facts about the school budget for the 1962-63 school year. The voters must approve the budget at the same time they vote for the board candidates.

Those living in the school district who would like a fact sheet may call Mrs. Herwig Sternberg or any member of the League of Women Voters.

Why We Say--

SMALL COIN: The first newspaper was called a gazette and was invented during the war of 1653 between the Turks and Venetians. At that time the Venetians issued a monthly Bulletin on the progress of the war and sold it for one "gazetta," a small coin which soon turned into the word Gazette.

Nut With a Gun

RENSSELAER, N. Y. (AP)—Ben Handford will always remember his last half-hour as a member of the police force here. He was set to turn in his badge at 8 p. m. He planned to take a less-dangerous job as a store manager. Sitting in a police car with his partner, Patrolman Thomas Poole, Handford said, "Only a little while to go—we'll probably get some nut with a gun." Twenty minutes later, they arrested a man at gunpoint after a high-speed chase. The man had a shotgun and several shells beside him on the front seat of his automobile.

Indian 'Medicine'

"Medicine" of the Navajo Indians invokes ancient curing ceremonies. A beautifully wrought sand painting is made and the medicine man touches various symbols in it and then various parts of the patient's body. At the end of the ritual, the sand painting is destroyed and with it, the Navajo believes, goes the illness.

Contract Is First Priority

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Overtricks are fine but safety of contract is far more important.

East's jack of hearts forced South's queen at trick one. South promptly led a diamond to dummy's queen and continued with the king. West showed out and South suddenly realized that his apparently ironclad three no-trump contract was in grave jeopardy.

He thought and thought and finally decided that his best chance would be to find a 3-3 club break. He discarded the eight of spades on the ace of diamonds and went after clubs, but that suit failed to break and he could only gather in eight tricks.

If South had stopped to think for just a little while before leading at trick two he would have noted that while a 4-1 break is not too likely, it does happen some 28 per cent of the time and that there was a simple safety play to guard against it. South should have led a diamond and played low from dummy.

With a 3-2 diamond break this safety play would have held South to five diamond tricks instead of six, but five diamonds, plus two clubs, plus a minimum of two tricks in the major suits would add to at least nine and produced game and rubber.

Russians Maneuvering

Reds Off and Running To Block U.S. Testing

GENEVA (AP)—The Soviet Union launched a series of diplomatic maneuvers today in an attempt to block the American atmospheric nuclear weapons tests due soon in the Pacific. The United States and Britain stood fast against the pressure.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin called in the 17-nation disarmament conference for an unpoliced moratorium on testing—a move firmly resisted by the American ambassador.

Demands Easter Break

Zorin demanded that the United States promise to refrain from conducting shots over the Easter holiday weekend. He declared the Soviet Union would not agree to a recess of the conference unless such a promise was received.

Zorin's maneuvers tied up the conference in a procedural wrangle. The delegates — many with their bags packed—had been scheduled to recess today until Tuesday.

There was no indication in Geneva that the American tests would start this weekend. Westerners speculated that the first shot in the projected Christmas Island series was at least seven days away.

West Still Firm

In a long session of the conference, U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean and British Minister of State Joseph Godber insisted there was no change in the Western position. Simply stated it is this:

The United States tests will take place as planned unless the Soviet Union quickly accepts a test ban treaty with international control arrangements. In Washington and London President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan have said the same thing.

Zorin repeated that the Kremlin never would accept international controls.

Zorin coupled his move with a qualified Soviet offer to negotiate on those portions of a neutralist test ban which conform to Moscow's ideas on enforcement.

The United States and Britain said they also would be willing to use the neutralist proposal for negotiating purposes provided the Soviets accepted the concept of scientifically sound international enforcement.

The American and British delegations said they, too, were willing to negotiate on the neutralist plan if the Soviet Union would accept the principle of an international control system and of on-site inspections.

The plan was submitted three days ago by the eight nonaligned countries at the conference—Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Nigeria, Sweden and the United Arab Republic.

The eight countries tried to bridge the differences on inspection and control dividing the Soviet Union from the United States and Britain.

Change of View Unlikely

Dean said the Soviets "are accepting what is in their favor but rejecting what they are opposed to."

"The Soviet Union is ready to stop tests if the Western powers do," Zorin said. He claimed that fruitful negotiations can not be carried out in Geneva if tests are going on.

The Soviet move came less than 24 hours after President Kennedy told a Washington news conference that the United States intends to proceed with the tests in the Christmas and Johnston Island areas. Only a change of views by the Kremlin can alter this situation and there is yet no sign that it is about to do this, the President explained.

Biggest Political

lican, reaches of the district next week. He has scheduled a luncheon Monday in Canandaigua, an appearance at the Geneva Policemen's Ball that night, a speech Tuesday to a Democratic luncheon and an appearance in Penn Yan later that day, visits to Seneca Falls on Wednesday and to Cayuga County on Thursday.

Has Apparent Strategy

Stratton's apparent strategy is to be in a position to bid for the Democratic nomination for congress from the district if, as now seems likely, he is denied his party's nomination for governor.

The fact that Stratton is not a resident of the district would not bar him from running if he did not chose to move into it.

Current indications are that Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, the state Democratic leader, will take on himself the job of challenging Rockefeller.

Souhan has not declared himself officially in the race but is considered a possible candidate. He has indicated, however, that he would forego the nomination rather than enter a primary fight with Stratton or any other Democrat.

The Republican nominee is expected to be chosen by GOP leaders in the eight counties involved —Montgomery, Otsego, Chenango, Cortland, Cayuga, Seneca, Yates and Ontario.

Those leaders will designate either Quigley or Mrs. Gordon. Indications are there will be no Republican primary fight.

McClintock's acknowledgement meant formal recognition of the legality of the Guido government.

Stories Differ

Storekeeper Is Held After Youth Slain, 5 Injured

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A white storekeeper was held on a murder charge today after a shooting spree in his store that killed a Negro youth and injured five others.

Police quoted Ollie F. Sally, 59, as saying the teen-agers tried to attack him.

The boys, high school students on Easter vacation, told another story. They said Sally locked them inside his tiny confectionery store, then—without provocation —opened fire at them.

Police said 13 shots rang out before one of the youngsters, wounded in the knee, grappled with the storekeeper, threw him toward the rear of the store, and followed the other boys to safety outside.

Two times after the incident, offices had to disperse angry groups of Negroes—relatives and friends of the boys.

Killed in the fusillade from Sally's pistol was Clarence Simms, 16, shot twice in the head. Wounded, though not critically, were Charles Hayes Petty, 17; Nathanial Conyers, 14; James Lee Moore, 13; Anthony Lyons Tucker, 16, and Harry James Moseley, 16.

Sally told officers the boys came into his store, demanded soft drinks, banged their hands on the counter. Then, he said, one of them asked for a bag of potatoes.

As he stooped to get the potatoes, the storekeeper said, Simms said, "Let's get him," and tried to grab him.

That, Sally told police, was when he got his pistol and began shooting. He denied he locked the doors.

Sally was convicted 13 years ago of manslaughter in the death of a white man, Everett J. Justice, in a store Sally operated on the fringe of a Negro neighborhood in Durham, N.C.

The conviction in 1949 came a year after Sally unsuccessfully ran for mayor of Durham. He served a few months in prison. His store here was opened in 1960.

DAR Will Name Virginia Woman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marion Moncure Duncan of Alexandria, Va., an insurance broker who collects antiques, was slated to become the new president general of the Daughter of the American Revolution today.

It's just a matter of pulling the levers on the voting machines, for Mrs. Duncan and her slate of 11 are unopposed for the top posts.

Mrs. Duncan will be the first DAR president from the state of Virginia. And, at age 48, she's probably the youngest woman to head the 186,000-member organization.

At their current 71st convention, the DAR delegates voted additional funds to their new lineage research committee designed to process geneology papers and get new applications for membership rushed through.

The Kennedy View:

Price-Wage Policy Must Meet Interest of Nation

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has staked out a chair for the government—or as he views it, for the people—at the hitherto sacrosanct corporation boardroom and collective bargaining tables across America.

This has been a firm administration policy for some time, but news of it, despite frequent restatement, doesn't seem to have generally seeped through. It was the root of all the uproar in the recent steel price fracas.

Simply put, the policy is that the national interest requires the government to state clearly and positively how price and wage decisions, put into effect or contemplated, stack up with requirements of maintaining wage-price stability. The President has stated a few rules to follow.

Must Stick Together

There is no law prohibiting this. There is none precisely authorizing it either, except perhaps the unwritten law of necessity of everyone, as Kennedy says, sticking together in a nation faced with worldwide problems and commitments.

Clearly Kennedy is depending upon the force of public opinion to keep wages and prices in line to foster economic growth and keep this country ahead in world trade in the face of growing foreign sales competition.

"This interrelationship," Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday, "makes the public interest mandatory in these matters, and it is our responsibility to present it to those involved. That is what we tried to do in the steel case."

Must Consider Nation

"We can attempt, it seems to me," he said at another point, "to bring before the (private) parties in the most effective way possible, the public interest that is involved, and must be involved, particularly in these basic industries."

In getting the major steel companies to rescind their price increases Kennedy's most effective way possible included channeling government steel purchases through those firms that maintained the lower price line.

Some members of Congress have questioned whether this was legal. But the administration defended the action, saying a firm which had boosted prices had thus boosted itself out of the lowest price bracket on a negotiated contract.

Early in his administration Kennedy seems to have decided that letting some businesses set prices according to whatever the market would bear, without relation to costs, and some unions tap employers for economically-disruptive wage increases, no longer could be tolerated without public disapproval via the government.

The President says he has no wage-price fixing powers and has never suggested they are desirable. But he said he expects business and labor to cooperate so that their wage and price decisions will continue economic stability.

Moon Will Be Right Next Week For Ranger Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The moon moves into a favorable position next week and the United States is ready to launch a gold-and-chrome-plated Ranger 4 spacecraft toward it to take closeup television pictures and record moonquakes.

Scientists hope that modifications made in the booster rocket and spacecraft will eliminate previous troubles.

A similar payload, Ranger 3, missed the moon by 22,862 miles Jan. 18 after a guidance malfunction resulted in excess speed by the Atlas-Agena B rocket. And a circuitry error prevented the camera aboard Ranger 3 from snapping lunar pictures when the payload reached its nearest point to the moon before zipping past and into orbit about the sun.

Monday is the first day of four days when the moon—about 235,000 miles away—will be in a desirable position for the launching. If the rocket cannot be fired during this period, the shot will be postponed until the next favorable period starting about May 20.

Ranger is the first of many instrumented spaceships the National Aeronautics and Space Administration intends to launch to the moon to pave the way for landing American astronauts there later in this decade.

India Subs Pandas For Jackie's Cubs

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Jacqueline Kennedy is going to get two rare baby pandas to replace the two tiger cubs that died after they were presented to her during her visit to India.

Pandas, natives of the Himalayas, are difficult to locate but two have been found.

Because they must be brought down gradually to sea level, two from the zoo in Hamburg, Wes Germany, will be sent to Mrs. Kennedy in three or four weeks, U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith said today. The two that have been captured in the Himalayas will be sent to Hamburg.

The tiger cubs, presented to the U.S. First Lady by India's International Airline, died of food poisoning. Mrs. Kennedy asked Prime Minister Nehru if they could be replaced by pandas.

Albany Bell Was Sent for Troops By Queen Anne

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—One of the bells being rung today in a nationwide bell-ringing observance of Patriots Day was sent to Albany from England in 1712 by Queen Anne for summoning British troops garrisoned at Ft. Frederick.

The bell, in the steeple of St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church on State Street, normally is rung now only at the beginning of Lent and on Easter and Christmas Eve, because it is cracked. The bell weighs 150 pounds.

Ft. Frederick was on State Street east of the present State Capitol.

The American Legion suggested bell-ringing today to mark the 187th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord and Paul Revere's ride.

Good Friday in Cuba, Too

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Cuba plans to observe Good Friday.

The government radio announced today that the old tradition of closing down all except essential businesses will be followed Friday.

No explanation was given. The Fidel Castro regime does not officially recognize the existence of God.

Much Happier Easter

Reservist's View After JFK Orders Stockade Release

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—"It'll be a much happier Easter now," said Pfc. Bernis Owen after he was released from the post stockade on orders from President Kennedy.

Owen, 23, from Seadrift, Tex., freed Wednesday, had served three weeks of a six-month, hard-labor sentence by a court-martial which found him guilty of disrespect to his commanding general. He also was fined $50 a month.

In Washington, President Kennedy told a news conference he was remitting the sentence and also releasing another Reservist "in the spirit of Easter week."

The other man was Pfc. Larry D. Chidester of Salt Lake City. Chidester, 24, had been facing court-martial at Ft. Lewis, Wash., for suggesting among other things that perhaps Kennedy figured "the jobs left open by our callup will re-elect him on the basis of low unemployment."

The President ordered Chidester's court-martial canceled.

"I'm very happy," Chidester said, "and it's something I deeply respect the President for, now more than ever. Regrets? My only regret is the trouble it caused for the military. I did not intend to do that."

Chidester criticized Kennedy in a letter to Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, and encouraged 74 other men in his outfit—the 115th Ordnance Co., a Utah National Guard unit — to sign the letter.

In Owen's case, he was accused of having said the general's order halting "we-want-out" demonstrations was "a hilarious climax to a chain of injustices."

After leaving the stockade, Owen packed his gear and moved out to join his company in the field. He is in Company D, 4th Armored Rifle Battalion, 49th Armored Division of the Texas National Guard.

Owen's unit is scheduled for release from federal service in August.

Veteran Appeals To JFK, Rocky on Price for Home

A survivor of the Bataan death march in World War II, whose home stands in the path of the approaches to the Newburgh-Beacon bridge, is appealing to President Kennedy and Governor Rockefeller to assist in getting him full value of his property to be taken by the State.

Milton L. Epstein, Beacon attorney, said Wednesday that his client, Joseph J. Carbonaro, of Woodland Avenue, Beacon, owner of the property involved in the taking, is appealing for "the urgent attention" of the President and Governor to the "callous and shameful treatment" accorded Carbonaro.

Epstein said the State has filed a notice of taking Carbonaro's dwelling, offering $22,000 for the property which Carbonaro claims was valued at $26,000.

In letters mailed to President Kennedy and Governor Rockefeller, Epstein said: "Let us not find money for the rich and celebrated, famous and infamous only. Once in a while the little people ought to be remembered. All we seek for Joe Carbonaro is a little fairness. This is a matter which calls for your urgent attention."

Citing Carbonaro's Army career, Epstein noted the veteran's participation in the death march and treatment received in more than 1,000 days of imprisonment by the Japanese.

After Carbonaro's return from service, the letters said, the former soldier married and has three children. He built his house with the funds received for his prisoner of war time and the subsistence allowance.

Epstein said that a notice of eviction effective Wednesday, was served on Carbonaro, now 42.

"We're not moving out, absolutely not," Epstein said. "They will have to get a court order and I'll defend Carbonaro.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A Tampa dentist, who was paralyzed from the waist down when he fell while leaving an airplane, settled a damage suit against Trans World Airways Wednesday for approximately $400,000.

Dr. Byron G. Wilson's suit charged the loading ramp moved while he was leaving the aircraft, causing him to fall 10 feet.

His spinal cord was severed, doctors testified.

Favor Wiretap Data in Fight Against Drugs

NEW YORK (AP)—A committee of federal, state and New York City officials urges enactment of a federal law permitting wiretapping in the fight against the narcotics traffic.

A campaign for wiretap legalization was the main point in an anti - narcotics program adopted by 35 officials who attended a conference called Wednesday by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

A wiretap bill has been introduced in Congress under sponsorship of the Department of Justice. The measure would permit federal and state officers to tap telephone wires if they have a court order when investigating narcotics cases, among others. It also would permit use in court of evidence obtained by wiretapping.

The Supreme Court has ruled that, under present law, evidence obtained by wiretapping cannot be used as evidence in federal courts.

Ford Gives Grants To Cornell and Wisconsin Schools

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation today announced grants of $3.25 million to Cornell University and $1.2 million to the University of Wisconsin to help expand their programs of non-Western area studies, overseas rural development and other international studies.

The grants are part of a foundation program initiated in 1960, under which 12 universities previously received grants totaling $35.9 million.

Cornell will use part of its grant to strengthen research and training programs in problems of agriculture in developing societies, particularly in South and Southeast Asia and Latin America. Funds will be provided for five new faculty positions in the rural social sciences, for research, graduate assistantships, and overseas travel.

In its area-study programs on Southeast Asia and contemporary China, Cornell will be enabled to increase its language staff, engage visiting professors, expand research, and develop its library. The university will also use funds from the grant to strengthen programs on Latin America, the Soviet Union, and South Asia.

Wisconsin's grant will be used mainly for its area-study programs on Latin America, India, and the Soviet Union.

Kennedys Settle Down for Easter Rest in Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President and Mrs. Kennedy, their two children and the dog, Charlie, settle down today in an ocean front mansion behind a hibiscus hedge for a 10-day Easter vacation.

The only item on the official schedule was for the President to tap a telegraph key Saturday to open the World's Fair at Seattle, Wash., across the continent.

The President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, was at the airport to greet his son at midafternoon under partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the mid 70s.

The elder Kennedy, recuperating from a stroke suffered last December, was driven to the airport in a dark blue convertible. The President's mother is in Europe.

The President came smiling down the ramp, greeted his father and personally took over the driving to return his father to the Kennedy winter home. Mrs. Kennedy and the children, Caroline, 4, and John Jr., 1, followed in another car.

The presidential family is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Michael Paul, not far from the elder Kennedy's mansion.

Kennedy plans to stay here until April 27, when he returns to Washington to greet British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Both of them will be guests that night at a banquet given by the White House correspondents and news photographers.

State to Get N.J. Data On Drinking Age Problem

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A legislative committee studying New York State's minimum legal drinking age will receive information from New Jersey on accidents involving youths who had driven to New York to drink.

New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes said he would give New York's Joint Legislative Committee to Study the Alcohol Beverage Control Law "A very formidable and persuasive body of information that we have gotten together on this problem."

The committee plans to focus its attention this year on the question of raising the minimum legal drinking age in New York State from 18 to 21. Youths may not drink legally until 21 in the five states bordering New York, and those states have been urging New York to raise its minimum age to 21.

Sen. John J. Marchi, R-Staten Island, said Wednesday Hughes had agreed to cooperate in a study of the effect of New York's minimum drinking age on New Jersey youths. Hughes has named New Jersey Motor Vehicle Commissioner Ned J. Parsekian to represent him.

Marchi said similar consultations might be arranged with other states.

After committee discussions with Parsekian have been completed, the chairman said, "I will be most happy to sit down with Gov. Hughes, jointly view the extent of the problem, and discuss what steps might be taken."

Gov. Rockefeller was quoted in Washington Wednesday as telling a meeting of Republican House members that something may be done next year about the drinking-age problem.

In the past, he has refrained from specific comment on the question on the grounds that it was being studied by the legislative committee.

Dutchess Indicts 4 Bank Robbers, County Trial Set

Accused of participating in the $42,977 daylight robbery at the Dover Plains National Bank last Monday, four men were indicted today by a Supreme Court grand jury at Poughkeepsie.

Single Indictment

The single indictment accuses the four defendants of conspiracy, robbery first degree, grand larceny first, assault second and illegal possession of firearms, a violation of Section 1897 of the Penal law.

District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta told The Freeman the indictment was handed up before noon to Supreme Court Justice Frank McCullough.

Baratta said the four defendants will be tried in Dutchess County Court. It was previously indicated that two of the men, apprehended by the FBI in New York City, would be tried in Federal Court.

The district attorney said an agreement had been reached with the U. S. Attorney's office in New York for trial of the four men at Poughkeepsie.

Two Seized in N. Y.

Two of the suspects were taken into custody in New York City Monday night by the FBI and State Police. They were James Cooper, 32, formerly of Dover Plains, and William Maslausky waived preliminary examination at arraignment in Federal Court and their cases were referred to a federal grand jury.

At the arraignment Assistant U. S. Attorney Arthur I. Rosett said warrants were being issued for the other two suspects held in Dutchess County, calling for their arraignment before a U. S. Commissioner in New York.

Baratta said today that the question of place of trial for the defendants had been resolved and all four will face trial at Poughkeepsie. The other defendants, taken into custody at Wingdale an hour after the holdup were: Perry Patick Paulding Jr., 20, and Kenneth Graham, 29, both of 364 Lexington Avenue, New York City.

Paulding and Graham waived preliminary hearing before a Dover Plains justice of the peace, who referred the case to the grand jury.

More Questioned

Witnesses questioned yesterday by the Supreme Court grand jury included Charles I. Wyman, chief cashier at the Dover Plains bank; Miss N. Alice Stripling, an assistant cashier; Joseph Boschelli, 82, Poughquag, a bank depositor, who was injured in the robbery, and several state troopers who figured in the investigation and capture of the accused robbers.

The money, which was recovered, was covered by insurance, according to Thomas J. Boyce, bank president, who said the bank had been reimbursed for the $42,977 taken by the four men.

Gold Reply . . .

Supreme Court Justice MacAffer's decision could be reported within several days or could take longer depending upon the number of cases on his docket with priority.

Stays as Counsel

Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, chairman of the special council committee, had announced April 11 that Corporation Counsel Gold had disqualified himself in appearing for the committee and a special Common Council meeting was called for last Friday to consider obtaining counsel. None was named after a long recess and after Gold explained in a letter that he saw no conflict of interest at this time, the aldermen continued with him. He felt, he said, that he could represent the committee until "actual hearings are commenced."

Corporation Counsel Gold on Monday was given three days in which to file his replying affidavit.

Referring to the state-aid increase, he said:

"This notable step by the state is a challenge to you to take equally strong action in strengthening the support of the schools in your community."

Pressing Search For Mother of Baby Found Dead

Search for the mother of a nine-pound infant male, found Tuesday on the Town of New Paltz dump was pressed today by State Police BCI agents and uniformed troopers from the Highland and Kingston substations.

Troopers made a systematic check at more than 80 homes in the Gardiner area, where refuse was picked up by a collector and deposited on the New Paltz dump. No clues as to the identity of the mother of the infant were uncovered.

The infant's body was discovered Tuesday afternoon by Henry Mahler, 60, of New Paltz, identified by troopers as a trash picker at the dump. The body was wrapped in tissue paper, authorities said.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle said Wednesday that an official finding as to the cause of the infant's death and the length of time the infant had been dead before it was found, was being withheld pending further laboratory tests.

The coroner said examination of the body indicated the baby was alive at birth.

Authorities again appealed to the public to notify troopers at Highland or Lake Katrine if they have any information that might lead to the identity of the infant's mother. Any information given troopers will be in strict confidence, authorities said.

The infant was one to three days old, troopers said.

Board to Settle Pilots' Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—A three-man arbitration board will settle a dispute between Pan American World Airways and the Air Line Pilots Association involving the size and duties of crews on jet liners.

President Kennedy said Wednesday that the pilots had agreed to binding arbitration of the issue. The airline had agreed earlier.

At issue is how Pan Am should make the transition from four-man to three-man operating crews on its big jet airliners. The decision could have a bearing in future negotiations between the pilots and Trans World Airlines, Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines, all of which now have four-man crews.

The three arbiters are Dr. George Taylor, industrialist Edgar Kaiser, and George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO. Their findings were asked by May 20.

The pilots Tuesday night postponed a threatened strike that would have involved 1,400 pilots 40 minutes before it was to have begun.

OTC Stocks Often Sell Under Quoted Prices

Q) "I recently sold a few hundred shares of stock in the over-the-counter market. During the week I did my selling, the lowest price in the newspaper quotations was 32 bid—34⅝ offered. Yet, I had to take a price of only 30 for my shares. Can you explain why I didn't get a better price?"

D. D.

A) Yes, the reason you didn't get a better price was due to the character of the market involved. Unlisted trades are purely private matters between individuals, and the terms are simply a matter of mutual agreement.

In contrast to the major exchanges, there are no over-the-counter specialists with the duty of maintaining a constant market in unlisted stocks. Shares are bought for the best price obtainable at a particular time and sold on the same basis. In order to provide a guide to OTC trades, daily quotes are run in the newspapers, giving both the bid and asking prices. However, these figures don't necessarily represent actual OTC transactions.

In the case of large trades, some price concessions will almost always have to be made in order to fill the order. Selling perhaps 50 or 100 shares of the stock you were holding might have been easily done at the published bid price. However, since you sold a fairly sizable block, it's likely that you broker had to bargain—that is, lower his offering price somewhat before he could find another broker or brokers, willing to take this amount of stock into their inventories. In short, I think it's very likely that your broker did the best job he was able to do under the market conditions prevailing.

Q) "Is Gillette still a good buy?" G. C.

A) Definitely so, in my opinion. Gillette is an excellent merchandiser, and I anticipate an increasing demand for its consumer-oriented products in the years ahead. Bigger sales should be translated into steadily improving earnings and the shares, as a result, ought to continue within their distinctly upward channel.

Dotty Lamour Back in Town

'Jungle Princess' Still Sarongable

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)— A famous figure was back in town this week, and it belonged to Dorothy Lamour.

I can report that the figure is still highly sarongable, even though its owner admits to having starred as "the jungle princess" 25 years ago.

"I don't mind admitting it," she said. "In fact, people think I'm so much older than I really am that I have to correct them. Don't forget I started as a kid."

Dotty, 47, was back in town for a Bob Hope television show which airs next Wednesday on NBC. She'll be plugging their mutual movie (with a guy named Crosby) "The Road to Hong Kong."

"My role in the television trailer is bigger than the one I've got in the picture," she said ruefully.

You'll recall that Dotty almost staged a sit-down strike last summer when she was asked to come to London for a guest part in the movie. Joan Collins took over the role between Bing and Bob.

"Imagine—me doing four lines and one small number in a 'Road' picture!" she said. "Those jerks—Bing and Bob—I don't know why I still love them."

But she does, and after many transatlantic phone calls, Dotty agreed to do her stint.

"Now I feel like the cat that swallowed the canary," she said. "I read the reviews from England, and they're all great for me."

Lamour's last movie was "Road to Bali" nine years ago.

"I've had plenty of scripts sent to me from Italy, from England and from here," she said. "But you should see what they want me to play.

"One of them had me as a woman living with a married man. Another was an alcoholic. Or a prostitute. I'm not about to do pictures like that. I always made pictures that the whole family could see. Even though I haven't made a picture for nine years, the public is amazingly loyal."

Home for her has been Baltimore, where husband William Howard is engaged in a promising bread-canning enterprise. They've lived there for three years, and she loves it.

How does she keep her figure so whistleable?

"Have you ever tried to keep up with two boys, 12 and 16?" Those are her sons, Tom and Ridge.

Political Lunacy

Communist Raps Extreme Views of U. S. Rightists

CLINTON, N. Y. (AP)—A Communist, whose lecture here drew protests from the local American Legion post, said the extreme right-wing elements in the United States represented a "type of political lunacy."

Arnold Johnson, described by the lecturers bureau of the American Communist Party as a "veteran Communist" told a Hamilton College audience Wednesday night that the right-wing extremists make this country "a laughing stock in other parts of the world."

He referred specifically to the John Birch Society.

He appeared at Hamilton at the invitation of a student group.

After the Clinton American Legion post protested against the invitation, Hamilton President Robert W. McEwen declared, "It would be unwise and quite contrary to the American way of life to put blinders on (the students) as though they were children."

Johnson's speech touched on a variety of subjects. He was interrupted by several outbursts of laughter from the audience of about 500 persons, most of them students. But the audience generally was described as orderly.

Johnson said the threat of nuclear war raises only one question—"coexistence or no existence at all."

State Exhibits First Draft of Lincoln's Edict

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—For the first time in 12 years, the state put the first draft of the Emancipation Proclamation by President Abraham Lincoln on public exhibition today.

The manuscript, owned by the state, was displayed in the State Library. It will be shown later in other parts of the state, but no schedule was announced.

The historic document, issued in 1863, proclaimed about 3 million slaves in 10 southern states to be free.

Plans to exhibit the document were announced Wednesday by the State Civil War Centennial Commission as Gov. Rockefeller signed a bill providing for a permanent display of the proclamation in the rotunda of the State Library.

The State Education commissioner will appoint a 14-member committee to design a display case.

James Fairbairn of Shokan has taken exception to a statement that there was no public opposition voiced to placing on tenure, pending receipt of legal opinion from the State Education Department, three employes at the Onteora Central School meeting last Monday. Fairbairn said there was public opposition expressed, in addition to the one dissenting vote of Trustee Raymond Cruthers.

Elephant Fund Is Started to Buy Belle and Baby

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Belle the elephant and her five-day-old baby are doing fine, and the city of Portland is as proud as any new parent.

The 225-pound male calf was born at the Portland Zoo Saturday. It was the first elephant calf born in the United States in 44 years.

Queen Alice, a Sells-Floto Circus elephant, was the last to bear a calf in captivity. She had four, but none of them lived.

Belle's baby hasn't been named but reporters have tagged him "Fuzzy-face." Fuzz covers his body and makes him look as if he has a beard.

Morgan Berry, Seattle wild animal dealer who owns Belle, said he was deluged with offers to purchase Belle and her calf, with offers running as high as $50,000.

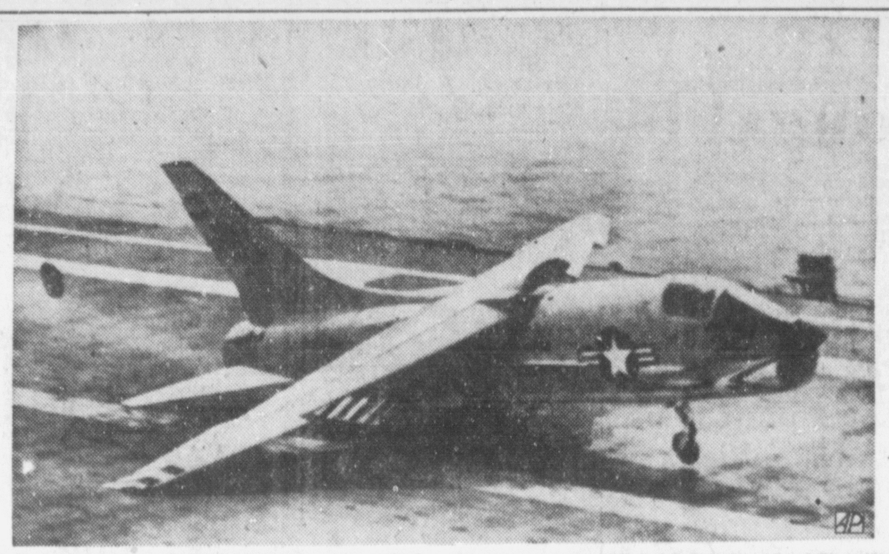

But he is a friend of Portland Zoo Director Jack Marks and offered to sell mother and baby to the city for $30,000.

A "Jack Marks Elephant Fund" was established and a committee appointed to coordinate solicitations. No word was available today on how much money had been collected, but radio stations, business and schools were joining the drive.

Berry was confident Belle would be a good mother, and he was right. She was so protective that attendants had a hard time separating the calf from her long enough to weigh him.

Another problem arose when Belle wouldn't sleep or let her baby lie down. Berry finally figured out that her jungle instinct told her she couldn't protect him alone. In the jungle, another elephant would stand guard while she and her baby slept.

So Berry lay down on the hay and snuggled up to Belle's bars Sunday night. Belle, convjnced she had a good baby-sitter, lay down to sleep with her calf snuggled between her and Berry.

Hurley Firemen Elect Officers

Kenneth Cudney was elected chief of Hurley Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 at a recent meeting held in the firehouse.

Other line officers named were Francis Whispell, first assistant chief; Eugene Hunter, second assistant chief; the Rev. Harold Schadewald, captain; Earle McLane, first lieutenant, and Paul McGuire, second lieutenant.

Charles Goble was elected vice president to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Eugene Hannay. The office of secretary was not filled. McGuire resigned from that post.

Goble reported on the attendance figures for the Saturday night movies which had its final performance on April 14.

Richard Ruth Jr., reported on the baby sitters course which was recently completed with 46 attending.

Chester Dolson Jr. reported on plans for participation in Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association and parade July 26, 27 and 28.

Monday nights with the exception of meeting nights were set aside as work nights for training and drill sessions and normal maintenance of equipment.

Goble reported on the annual fund raising campaign to begin April 28. The funds are used for civic activities such as the recent baby sitters' course and movie night program.

Wappingers Teachers Asking for Raise

An increase in starting salaries for teachers in the Wappingers Central School District, has been requested of the Board of Education by the district's Faculty Association. The district's starting salary at present is $4,600—$100 above the New York State mandated minimum.

The Faculty Association recently adopted a resolution pointing out that the nearby communities of Kingston, Saugerties, Onteora and Highland have starting salaries for teachers of at least $5,000 and Arlington district has $4,800.

Richard C. Smith, association secretary, stated the resolution urges the school board to revise the starting salary for teachers upward proportionally in order that Wappingers Central Schools will be able to compete with other school systems in hiring and retaining quality teachers.

IBEW Votes New Pact in Warren, Long Tieup Over

WARREN, Pa. (AP)—A three-month strike of some 60 production workers at the Solar-Electric Corp. in Warren has ended with the signing of a new two-year contract providing for a wage increase, a union shop, union dues check off and a job reclassification survey.

Officials said the pact provides a wage increase of 20 cents an hour for the next two years, plus up to 18 cents an hour more from an incentive program.

The workers, members of Local 2086, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, voted yesterday to return to work next Monday.

They had gone on strike at Solar, a division of El-Tronics Corp., on Jan. 10. During the strike about one dozen arrests were made for alleged picket line violence.

Village Budget Shows Pay Raise For All Employes

The tentative budget for the Village of Saugerties which is now available for perusal in the village clerk's office shows an overall raise for all village employes and the water and library boards. The amounts vary as to positions and departments, but noticeable increases have been made in the salaries of the police department, which was the subject of contention at last year's hearing when the salaries were not increased.

The tentative buget which will be discussed Friday night at a public hearing for an estimated expenditure of $207,148.50, with estimated revenues set at $35,100 and the amount to be raised by taxation as $172,048.50. The tentative tax rate is $17.187 per thousand.

Scouts Honored By Village at Board Meeting

At the Monday night meeting of the Saugerties Village board, Mayor George P. Holmes and the trustees presented honorary badges to five boys from Boy Scout Troop 32 who participated in the Good Government Day program held in the village clerk's office earlier this year. The boys took over the duties of the mayor and the trustees and conducted the business during the meeting, with Brian Legg acting mayor, and Martin Launer, Daniel Stevens, Allen Wolven, Glen Myers and Otto Numssen, acting trustees.

Dr. Richard Messina, newly elected chairman of the village planning board was present to report on the recent organizational meeting of the board and briefed the mayor and trustees on the business discussed at that meeting. He made a request for financial assistance from the village for the attendance of himself and Nathan Aaron of the planning board to attend a special course at the Orange County Community College on village planning which is held once a week for the next two months. The board approved aid in the amount of $20 per person tuition fees, with the members paying their own transportation costs.

Dr. Messina discussed a master plan for the village and recommended that the board consider action on this in the very near future. He stressed the fact that the planning board was not recommending urban renewal but an overall plan for the village that would improve all areas and not just the business sections. The mayor and board were enthusiastic in their response to his recommendations and promised cooperation in future discussions.

Robert Snell of the Junior Chamber of Commerce requested cooperation in the organization's project, Operation Pride. The Jaycees are stimulating interest in the area to clean up and fix up properties and public places to make the community more appealing to the residents and visitors. His request for the village to furnish paint for curbs and parking meters was granted and the Jaycees will furnish the men to do this job. They will also man the public works trucks on the afternoon of May 5 to go through the village streets and pick up refuse from in front of homes where the residents have cooperated by cleaning up their properties.

A resolution was passed to have a No Parking sign put on the east side of Partition Street from the corner of Hill Street to the Saugerties bathing beach on a 30-day trial basis.

James Wynne was granted exemption papers from the Robert A. Snyder Fire Company having served his full term from April 6, 1954 to 1962.

A public hearing on the village budget for the coming year will be held at the village clerk's room Friday, 8 p. m. A copy of the tentative budget may be seen during business hours at the office in the Municipal Building.

Veteran Rosary Society Slates Breakfast May 27

Announcement was made at the Tuesday night meeting of St. John's Altar and Rosary Society that Mrs. Mary Ceysens, Ulster County director of Catholic Charities, will be the guest speaker at the organization's communion breakfast Sunday, May 27, at the church hall, Veteran.

Mrs. Edward Curry, president, speaking of the Holy Week special services at the church, requested members who are able to serve a one hour watch call on Good Friday between 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. contact her by phone.

The members were reminded of the Easter morning communion 8:30 a. m. when a special Mass will be offered for their late member, Mrs. Anna Bennetts.

The Rev. Daniel Daley, moderator and pastor of the church, explained the rituals of Holy Week to the members and noted that the new ruling in effect this year with services in the evening rather than morning, has increased attendance. He also showed movies of his recent trip to Bermuda and the 25th anniversary of his ordination.

A shipment of two cartons of cancer pads was made this week to Rosary Hill Hospital, Hawthorne, by the society.

Mrs. Jeannette Hynes was the recipient of the gift of the evening and refreshments were served by Mrs. Ann Blanchard and Mrs. Richard Balzer.

Election of officers will take place at next month's meeting.

Lions Club Program Listed for Monday

Donald Kelly, publicity chairman of the Saugerties Lions Club has announced that Glenford Genthner, program chairman, has invited a member of the Wine Guild to speak before the membership at its next regular meeting, Monday, at the Flamingo Restaurant.

President Henry Breitenbach made note of the change in plans for the organization's ladies' night which has been rescheduled for June 9 at the Flamingo.

Miss May Evans, director of education for the Saugerties Central Schools, was the guest speaker at Monday's meeting, and gave a detailed report of the present conditions in the schools and why an affirmative vote on the coming bond issue May 9, should be considered. She said that for grades one through six in the Mt. Marion, Glasco and Main Streets Schools, there is a shortage of 12 classrooms. Following the talk a question and answer period was held.

It was the opinion of the membership that another speaker on the subject with opposite views should be presented and the night of April 30 was set for this discussion.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The spring ham is being challenged this year for space on Easter menus.

One large chain of supermarkets this week placed turkeys before smoked hams on its list of weekend specials. They'll sell for 33 cents a pound in the heaviest weights to 39 cents a pound for the lightweights.

In general, food shoppers throughout the nation will find an unusual abundance of buys to broaden their post-Lenten meals.

The same chain listing turkey as a weekend special quotes prices unchanged for sirloin, rib roasts, veal chops, pork chops and fryers. Leg of lamb will be up six cents to 65 cents a pound.

At produce counters selections will include asparagus, artichokes, cabbage, corn, lettuce, onions, tomatoes and potatoes. An abundance of grapefruit, oranges—and in some areas strawberries—will be on hand, the Department of Agriculture reported.

It said shoppers can expect a wide variety of all dairy products, as well as good supplies of eggs.

Also plentiful and therefore probably at lower prices, will be fish sticks, fish portions, scallops and canned tuna. In the Northeast there will be plentiful supplies of fillets, halibut, shad, smelts, oysters and clams.

He Rushed to Help

NORTH ROSE, N. Y. (AP)—M. S. Phillips says people do emotional, unpredictable and sometimes foolish things when there is a fire. A farmhouse blaze here in the middle of the night attracted a neighbor who rushed over to help.

"Is there anything I can do?" he asked a volunteer fireman.

"Yes!" shouted the fireman, "Get a pail of water!"

"Okay!" yelled the man, and darted away.

In a moment he was back, but without the pail.

"Do you want well water or rain water?" he asked the fireman.

Honorary Colonels

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — There have been Kentucky Colonels ever since the first governor, Isaac Shelby, gave the title to his son-in-law, Charles Todd, in 1792.

Succeeding governors have created a far-famed brotherhood of outstanding men and women which has become formally organized.

Members hold a banquet once each year on the eve of the Kentucky Derby in Louisville.

One of the latest Kentucky Colonels is Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr., who was commissioned Feb. 20, 1962, after orbiting the world.

Root of Cold War Problems

Forces Far Beyond U. S. Help to Shape Our Lives

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Day to day living in Ameica seems as broad as American life and yet one event after another demonstrates how much this life is shaped by forces far beyond America.

One example was President Kennedy's news conference Wednesday when so many wide-ranging questions seemed unrelated — steel, business, disarmament, labor, prices, profits, Berlin, nuclear tests, campaign costs.

Most All Interlocked

Yet, almost all were interlocked and hinged on the cold war with communism even when there seemed no connection and communism wasn't mentioned.

The same holds true in one after another of these meetings between the President and the press.

He started off Wednesday's session by saying a new American disarmament plan had just been outlined to the Russians at Geneva. Here the cold war connection was direct and obvious.

He followed this with a statement on his conflict with the steel industry—a conflict he won when steel backed down on its price increase—and how he has no ill-will toward the men responsible for the short-lived price boost.

Up to Neck in Spending

He acknowledged the need of American business to make profits and said, "There can be no room on either side in this country at this time for any feelings of hostility or vindictiveness."

But his reasons for not wanting a price spiral to start at this time, when he's trying to keep the economy on an even keel, are rooted in the cold war. The United States is up to its neck in spending on armaments.

Blow to Economy

A general increase in living costs, meaning also increased defense costs, would jeopardize the economy and boost government expenses, at a time when the United States must stay financially sound to cope with communism and meet its commitments around the world.

Further, higher prices would cripple this country's ability to sell abroad, particularly to its allies or in competition with them elsewhere, at the very moment it wants closer trade ties with them.

Greater Western prosperity, particularly American prosperity, is vital in discouraging the ambitions of communism and in stiff-arming it in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Endless Chain

This is an endless chain.

There was, of course, a direct cold war link when Kennedy said this country now seems to have no alternative to nuclear testing since Russia wouldn't agree to an effective test ban treaty. The implications here were more grim than his simple statement showed.

Because there is no agreement not to test there is no reason to think both sides won't just go on testing and talking about not testing.

France came into the questioning but here, too, it was cold war stuff: How did he feel about sharing nuclear weapons with France? He indicated he was still against it.

West Germany also got into the questioning. This, too, involved the cold war. It was on the problem of reaching a settlement with the Russians on Berlin.

Even Kennedy's announcement of forgiveness for a couple of Army reservists who were critical of his calling them to active duty had a connection with Russia.

It was after talking with Premier Khrushchev, and listening to his warnings about Berlin, that Kennedy called up Reservists to show the Russian this country didn't intend to knuckle under.

Freeman Action Is Urged on NE Dairy Situation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., has asked the secretary of agriculture to take immediate steps to "relieve unfavorable price and market conditions for dairy products."

In a telegram to Secretary Orville Freeman Wednesday, Keating urged the Agriculture Department to grant a request from Northeastern milk producers for an emergency price hearing.

The producers have asked for hearings on proposals to reduce a milk surplus.

Another request, from four New York State dairy groups, asks for department hearings on a proposed amendment to the federal milk marketing order that would increase fluid milk prices paid to farmers by 22 cents per hundredweight (46½ quarts).

The amendment would remain in effect for the rest of the year.

The four New York groups are Dairymen's League, Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency and Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives.

Keating asked Freeman what action he could take personally to help dairymen and for the secretary's view of the feasibility of the suggestions from the dairymen.

VINCENNES, Ind. (AP)—Ed C. O'Neal, secretary-treasurer of Wabash-Arrow Coach Lines, gave this explanation Wednesday for the firm's decision to discontinue Vincennes' three city buses May 31:

Five From Ulster County 4-H Hear Conference Topics

Ulster County 4-H personnel attended the Eastern District 4-H Conference recently at Long Beach, L. I., the theme of which was "4-H Must Grow." The district conference is an organization of 22 Eastern counties and meets twice a year to discuss 4-H programs and ideas.

The group is composed of representatives from the County 4-H executive committees, 4-H Local Leaders Association, 4-H Council and 4-H Agents.

Representing Ulster County were Mrs. Gerald DuBois of New Paltz, member of the 4-H Club Executive committee; Mrs. Vernon Goetchius, Hurley, 4-H Club Leader; Miss Diane Dolan, Wallkill, and Gordon Switz, Lomontville, representing the 4-H Council, and Carlton Conklin, County 4-H Club agent.

Each representative at the conference met with the corresponding county representatives.

Ward Porter, chief of Program and Research, Division of Extension Research and Training, Federal Extension Service, who spoke on the "Changing Image of 4-H.".

Richard B. Stedman, director of Joint Administration Division Technical Assistance Board, United Nations, was guest speaker at the banquet last Friday night. He spoke on United Nations, explaining the difficulties encountered when new nations become independent.

The executive committee discussed the role of 4-H executive committee members in relationship with leaders, agents, community leaders and organizations. Donald Jewett, assistant state 4-H Club leader, was moderator for this group.

Should Survey Program

Mrs. DuBois reported that the group discussed the situation that the rural population in New York State has decreased by 22 per cent in the last five years. This fact underscored the idea that executive committees should give a hard look at the 4-H scopes and objectives if it is to grow, Mrs. DuBois noted, since it was found 4-H has been associated with rural and farm youth.

She said that in the future "we must have a program that will grow in the urban as well as rural sense." The 4-H organization needs to have a good working relationship with parents, sponsors, youth serving organizations, schools and churches.

It was noted that 4-H has a very definite role to play in the lives of the future youth, whether they are rural or urban.

The 4-H Leader group discussed ways local leaders can stimulate the growth of 4-H in their community. Ward Porter was moderator for this group. Mrs. Goetchius reported that the group discussed the ideas of good leadership, and better understanding and co-operation between parents, leaders and members as a means to stimulate growth in 4-H communities.

Other matters discussed were 4-H publicity on what the organization is and does and encouraging 4-H members to participate in civic and community affairs. The group felt these suggestions will help 4-H Clubs grow by making the "Best, Better."

The 4-H Council discussed how that group members can develop an appealing 4-H picture for teen-agers. Miss Geraldine Jordan, program assistant from the State 4-H Club office, was moderator for this group.

The 4-H Club agents discussed the steps that can be taken to create a true image of 4-H work today. Carlton Conklin, county 4-H Club agent, reported that the group discussed the changing image of 4-H work, noting that although 4-H is farm-centered it is increasing its scope and does offer projects that are interesting to urban and city youth. The group further noted 4-H offers youth oppurtunities to develop leadership and citizenship through the many 4-H projects, activities and county events and trips.

Moderator for the 4-H agent group was Merle Howes, State 4-H Club Leader from Massachusetts.

Governor Names Corbin as His Chief Counsel

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has named Sol N. Corbin, formerly his first assistant counsel, to succeed Robert Mac Crate as chief counsel.

Mac Crate's resignation, effective June 30, was announced Tuesday. He will return to private law practice.

Corbin, 35, was named an assistant counsel to the governor Jan. 14, 1959, soon after Rockefeller took office. He became first assistant counsel Dec. 17, 1959 and held the post until June 28 last year.

When he left the governor's office, Corbin became a partner in a New York City law firm.

As counsel to the governor, Corbin will be paid $27,500 a year. His appointment was announced Wednesday.

Thought Chance of Winning Remote

Legislating Steel Rollback Was Considered by Kennedy

By NORMAN WALKER
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, it was reported today, seriously considered in the midst of his recent battle with the steel industry a recommendation to Congress to legislate a steel price rollback.

The President is described as having been extremely reluctant to take the step. But he definitely had aides working up such a plan for possible use if it had been necessary in his administration's drive to get the major steel companies to rescind their price boosts.

The idea was to require a return to the lower steel price level for a specified cooling off period during which there would have been hearings and discussion of any necessity for higher steel prices.

Like T-H Law

This is much like the present Taft-Hartley law arrangement in which labor unions are required by court injunction to refrain from engaging in strikes during 80-day cooling off periods while issues are supposed to be aired and thrashed out.

Other price restraint legislative moves were also being considered in the midst of the administration maneuvers to squelch the steel price jump. One such move was reported to be a simple resolution to Congress condemning the price increases. These moves are now on the shelf—now that congressional committees are planning investigations and the crisis is considered to be over.

A House Antitrust subcommittee hearing on steel prices was to open May 2, but a short postponement was announced Wednesday. No new date was set.

At his news conference Wednesday Kennedy said he had no ill will against the steel industry or its leaders or, in fact, any segment of American economic life because he expects them all to work together to achieve stability and the nation's goals at home and overseas.

He made clear, however, that he expects his policies of wage-price restraint to be observed. In that connection he mentioned the next most important labor bargaining situation in the missile-space and aircraft industry.

Another facet of the recent steel price situation has just come to light. This is that Kennedy at the outset of his showdown battle with the steel industry figured his chances of winning were very remote.

In fact, an initial draft of his angry statement denouncing "a tiny handful" of steel executives as profit-greedy and irresponsible contained an outright call for a cancellation of the price increases.

With the other major steel companies announcing one by one at the time that they were following the price boost lead of U.S. Steel, Kennedy toned down the wording to read that the nation's economy would be badly upset unless the price increases were rescinded.

Tankers Await Cutters

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Two tankers stood by off Buffalo harbor today in hopes that Coast Guard cutters could open the ice-blocked port to shipping.

The Coast Guard said the tankers Rocket and O. C. MacFarland anchored off the ice field Wednesday night. Another vessel, the freighter J. B. Ford,, was diverted to Oswego shortly before when the cutter Ojibwa was unable to clear a channel through the ice.

Two ships have been able to leave the port, but none have made it in.

Prevailing westerly winds and currents pile the ice into the eastern end of the lake during the spring, making the opening of the Buffalo shipping season uncertain.

Water used to poach eggs should come up two inches high in a saucepan or deep skillet.

Dispute Over Market Pool

Carey Backs Federal Fine of Ravena Man

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A former state agriculture commissioner who now manages a dairy cooperative has sided with the federal government in its dispute with an Upstate dairy farmer.

The U.S. Agriculture Department is trying to collect $20,899 from Jesse R. Stalker of Ravena who, it said, had bought cream in five-gallon cans and sold the cream in two-quart containers without paying into a marketing pool. This the department said, violated a marketing agreement Stalker had signed.

Two New York congressmen, Leo W. O'Brien, a Democrat, and R. Walter Riehlman, a Republican, have protested what they called the fine levied against Stalker.

But Daniel J. Carey, the former state agriculture commissioner, said Wednesday that the $20,899 is "money (Stalker) owes other farmers."

Carey, manager of the Mutual Federation of Independent Cooperatives, explained that $40 million is paid into the pool each month. The money is then distributed among producers on the basis of whether milk is used for fresh consumption or for manufacturing, he said.

Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman has said the money is what Stalker, as a producer-handler, should have paid into the pool.

Under Agriculture Department regulations, Stalker could have bought the cream in containers the same size as those in which he sold it, and he would not have had to contribute to the pool. He said he was not aware that buying cream in a container of one size and selling it in a container of another size meant he had to contribute to the pool.

SIC Probing Johnson City

JOHNSON CITY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Investigation Commission, often accused by Democrats of concentrating on cities where Democrats are in power, is conducting an inquiry in this Republican-controlled village that adjoins Binghamton.

Commission Chairman John W. Ryan confirmed the investigation Wednesday, but would say nothing more. But it apparently deals with construction.

Several present and former village officials, including Mayor William F. Ott Sr., have been questioned, as have several construction contractors.

They said they had been told not to discuss their testimony or reveal the subject of the probe.

Ott and all members of the village board are Republicans.

Johnson City has a population of 19,000 and is one of the so-called Triple Cities that grew around the Endicott Johnson Corp., a shoe manufacturer.

Woman Indicted For Murder, Arson In Man's Death

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—A Niagara County grand jury Wednesday returned first-degree murder and first-degree arson indictments against Mrs. Elinor McKensley, a 43-year-old divorcee accused of killing a man by setting fire to his apartment.

The victim was Joseph J. Palia, 50, a tavern owner who had been dating her. Police accused Mrs. McKensley of setting fire to Palia's apartment while he slept, after the two had argued.

Both lived in Lockport.

Her trial was tentatively set for Sept. 4 in State Supreme Court here.

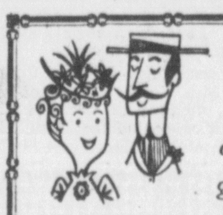

Equalization Set For Eight Towns; Five Are Lower

Final equalization rates based on 1961 assessment rolls have been established for eight Ulster County townships—three were assigned the same rates as last year, five have rates one point lower than in 1961, the State Board of Equalization and Assessment reported this week.

Those assigned the same rates were Esopus 19; Rochester 14, and Rosendale 11.

Those decreased one point are Kingston 13; Marlboro 19; Shawangunk 22; Ulster 15, and Wawarsing 17.

The rates are the ratio between the assessed value of local property and its actual or full value as determined by the state.

Sharp Knife Is Key to Proper Carving

DELICIOUS leg of lamb can be ruined by improper carving. Experts advise cross-grain cuts using very sharp knife.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Often, a delicious leg of lamb is ruined by improper carving. So let's find out how the experts do it.

The lamb should be cut across the grain, not parallel to the bone. Use a very sharp knife.

1. Place platter so that the leg bone is to the carver's right. Insert the fork firmly into the large end of the leg and cut two or three lengthwise slices from the side nearest the carver.

2. Turn the leg so that it rests firmly on the surface just cut. Holding the roast firmly with the fork inserted into the left end and beginning at the shank end to the right, make the first slice down to the leg bone and continue to make thin slices parallel to the first slices until aitchbone at the large end is reached.

3. With the fork still in place, the knife is run parallel to the leg bone to free the slices all at one time. The slices should be about one-fourth to three-eighths of an inch thick.

Comedy Writing Very Difficult for British TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Brad Ashton, who writes a 45-minute Saturday night comedy show on the British commercial network, returned to London this week after a busman's holiday in New York.

In two weeks, he crammed a lot of television-viewing into his schedule — and was positively overwhelmed by what he saw.

"I tell you," he marveled, "the way you people can poke fun at anyone. We've so many tabus in England—we can't make any jokes about the queen or the royal family, for instance. But what your comedians say about your President and his wife!

"We aren't allowed to joke about commercials, either, and you people do that all the time."

Perhaps even more impressive to Ashton was the speed and tempo of American television humor.

"In England, we aim for about five laughs a minute from our audiences," he said, "and at least a quarter of them come from pies in the face, trousers falling down, and roofs falling in.

"American comedians aim for character and warmth—not necessarily comedy. They get away with subtle comedy we could never use: Our audiences would never understand it. I asked one of your comedy writers if he tried to tailor his material for the hick town audiences, and he said that you don't have any hick towns anymore."

Now there's talk that CBS will try to fight NBC's winning news combination of Huntley-Brinkley, by teaming up Walter Cronkite with David Schoenbrun, the network's Washington head news man.

Better they should team Walter up with Dave Garroway, who is reported to be talking to the network about some work. He's definitely lined up to preside over the telecast of the Miss Universe beauty contest in early summer.

Recommended tonight: "The Law and Mr. Jones," ABC, 9:30-10 (Eastern Standard Time)—Return of a series about a lawyer with James Whitmore; "CBS Reports," 10-11—last of two-part series on income taxes.

Nothing tastes better in the spring than cooked fresh asparagus marinated in French dressing. Use the asparagus prepared this way as a luncheon salad garnishing with crisp greens, hard-cooked eggs and pimiento.

Fine Arts Weekend at New Paltz College Opens April 26-29; Gala Events Planned

The second annual Fine Arts Weekend will be held on April 26-29 on the campus of the State University College, New Paltz.

This fine tradition which began last year should prove to be a great success due to the spirited participation of the student body working under the leadership of Carl Crittenden, the student coordinator, according to Kurt Matzdorf, assistant professor of metalwork and jewelry, who is the faculty advisor for the event.

The weekend will begin with the New Paltz Players' major spring production on Thursday and Friday nights. Sophocles' "Electra" will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Vera R. Irwin, associate professor of drama, and Wilfred P. Casciato, assistant professor of speech and theatre, who is the technical director of this Greek tragedy production.

On Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock the weekend will continue with a new activity. A parade including floats with psychological themes entered by Inter Sorority Council, International Relations Club, Bouton Hall, Capen Hall, Scudder Hall, and College Hall will begin behind the College Union Building. After parading along Main Street the floats will assemble in front of the Campus School where the judging for the winning float will take place.

The Beaux Arts Ball with its title, "Inner Psychdom," will be sponsored by the Art Division and the Arts and Crafts Honor Society. It will take place in the new dining hall, completed in September 1961, on Saturday night. The proceeds of the costume ball which come from the admission fee, the auction of personal works donated by the art faculty, and donations by patrons of the college will go to the Ruth Bennett Art Scholarship.

This scholarship is awarded annually to outstanding art majors. The award for the winning float in the parade will be presented that evening.

Mu Sigma Epsilon, the music honor society, will present a program on Sunday afternoon in the College Union Building. Samuel Barber's "A Hand of Bridge" and excerpts from Mozart's "Bastien and Bastienne" and Gilbert and Sullivan's "Trial by Jury" will be presented along with woodwind, string, and other vocal selections.

Tyrone Guthrie's production of "Oedipus Rex" will be shown on Sunday evening. The movie which was recently purchased by the college will be presented by the Joint Activities Committee.

The Fine Arts Weekend at its very young age is working to achieve its goal for the second time. It unites many of the functions which in the past had appeared at different times during the spring semester into one weekend for the artistic enjoyment of the entire student body, and the general public.

We The Women

Women Find Men Their Own Age Most Interesting

At what age do you think a man is most interesting?" a staff writer for Memphis-Press Scimitar asked a number of women.

Naturally, the reporter got a variety of answers — depending on the age of the woman questioned. Only one woman gave an answer with which most any woman would agree. It was:

"Whatever age a woman is, a man that age is the most interesting to her."

Most women do feel that way and that is why you rarely find women trading their husbands in on younger models. It is also why middle-aged women find middle-aged film stars, like Cary Grant, far more fascinating than the young actors their daughters swoon over.

Women are realists and know that there is something a bit pathetic about a woman who is attracted to men years younger than she is. Also, being realists, women know that nothing makes a woman's years more apparent than having them compared with the more youthful looks of a man her junior.

Men, of course, aren't nearly as realistic. The middle-aged man who takes a young wife thinks that makes him young too. He doesn't see that the contrast between youth and middleage makes him seem older, rather than younger.

Nor does it even occur to the older man who thinks he is irresistible to young women that it is only his money or his position or his influence that makes young women pretend to find him fascinating.

So the answer the woman gave for women wouldn't be true for men. As a widow who is unashamedly husband-hunting points out:

"A woman of 50 who wants to marry has to face the fact that eligible men of 50 are looking for younger wives. So her only hope for marriage is to find a man of 60 or over to whom she will look young."

Sound reasoning: "How to Have a Happy Husband." Send 25 cents to Ruth Millett Reader Service, care of The Freeman, P. O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

Of Many Things

by DOROTHY A. NAREL
Freeman Society Editor

The Last Suppers

Da Vinci, Titian, Rubens, del Castagno, Giotto, Raphael, Fra Angelico, Ghirlandaio Tintoretto Dali . . . great artists all, but at Easter time we remember something else they have in common.

Each was inspired by the historic last meeting between Christ and the 12 disciples. Each painted the Last Supper.

From the very beginning of Christian art, the theme of the Last Supper has presented great challenge to artists. A painter can hardly choose a more difficult composition than a significant arrangement of 13 figures around a table, with servants occasionally making the scene more complex.

It is interesting to note how the masters of different ages place different emphasis on the two dramatic moments of the meeting. Some stress the point at which Christ says one of the disciples will betray him. Others point up the blessing and breaking of bread and the offering of wine . . . the Eucharist.

Andrea del Castagno, born in 1390 of Italian shepherd parents is best remembered for ushering in the dramatic phase of Florentine painting with his large vigorous fresco of the Last Supper.

According to "All the Paintings of Leonardo da Vinci," the first book in The Complete Library of World Art published by Hawthorn Books, Leonardo was influenced by Del Castagno's work when he painted his Last Supper, the most famous interpretation in the world.

Leonardo began his masterpiece in the Refectory of Santa Maria delle Grazie, Milan, in 1494. Grouped three by three in triangular patterns, the Apostles do not have their names written underneath (as Ghirlandaio and del Castagno had done), but are clearly recognizable by their facial traits, corresponding to the descriptions in the Scriptures.

Christ is silhouetted against the sky in the center; Judas is totally immersed in shadow.

Although the defective oil da Vinci chose faded rapidly . . . although part of the painting was destroyed in 1652 when a door was cut through the wall and further decay set in when the refectory was made into a stable (against Napoleon's orders) in 1796 . . . although the refectory was flooded for 15 days in 1800 . . . Leonardo's Last Supper remains the supreme image.

Devoting the next 12 years to 150 volumes of the complete works of all the masters, Hawthorn is now planning the Raphael edition, which will include the great Renaissance artist's version of the Last Supper — a fresco on the wall of the Loggia in the Vatican. The disciples are seated on all sides of a square table, while those seen from behind are turning their heads so as to show their faces.

Also included in the Complete Library of World Art will be the works of Titian, one of the greatest painters of all time. In 1564 he finished his Last Supper on canvas and sent it to Philip II of Spain. The masterpiece was hung in the great refectory of the Escorial (royal palace) . . . after the top of the canvas had been cut off to make it fit the wall!

Titian painted 13 life-size figures surrounding a table in a vast hall. Under the table, a dog gnaws a bone while on the floor, a partridge drinks out of a shallow bowl.

Most famous of the modern interpretations is Salvador Dali's Last Supper which hangs in the Chester Dale Collection of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D. C. . . . striking proof of the fact that this historic subject will probably never lose its appeal for the artist.

DeMolay Spring Dance

Pan-American Exhibit at Our Lady of Lourdes

In recognition of Pan-American Day, April 14, the Spanish Departments of Our Lady of Lourdes High School sponsored a Pan-American exhibit in the school library. The exhibition included such items as: clay pottery and glassware from Mexico, dolls and handcraft from Bolivia, Argentina, Peru, Chile and Mexico, and coins and stamps from various Latin-American countries. Many photographs and lithos depicted various phases of Latin-American life; these were amply explained by a large assortment of booklets, pamphlets and folders. The centerpieces for the display tables were made up of flags of the republics.

In Spanish classes, students had the opportunity to hear authentic melodies of the member nations of the O.A.S.

In culmination, a group of students compiled an informative O.A.S. booklet.

4-H Girls to Model In Dress Reviews

Spring is here, and so it is time once again for our 4-H Club girls enrolled in clothing projects to model their garments in the 4-H Fashion Reviews.

It is announced by Miss Mary Lou Rice, Assistant County 4-H Club Agent, 74 John Street, Kingston, that 275 entry blanks for area Reviews have been received to date at the 4-H Club Office. The Area Reviews held in three localities of the County include girls between the ages of 9 and 14 years. A County District Revue is held at a later date for all girls in the County 14 years of age and over. From this older group, State Exposition selections are made.

Each of the girls participating in the Revues must have completed one or more clothing projects to be eligible to enter the Revue. These garments include aprons and hot dish holders for beginners, skirts, blouses and two or three piece costume coordinates for Intermediate seamstresses, and dresses, suits, coats and more advance clothing construction work for the advance seamstresses. The Danish method of judging is used and certificates and awards are presented to each local participant, on the basis of individual merit. Judging is an important device used in 4-H Club work to teach standards and assist members in improving the quality of their work. Local women with Home Economics training or clothing construction background act as judges for these events.

Parents and friends are welcome to attend the Area Revues. Dates and times are:

Tuesday, April 24, Wallkill Central School, Wallkill—Judging between 3:15 and 5:30 p. m. The Review at 7:45 p. m. This group includes the Highland, Milton, New Paltz, Clintondale, Wallkill areas.

Wednesday, April 25, Christ the King Church Hall on Route 213, Stone Ridge—Judging 12:15 to 3 p. m. The Review at 3:15 p. m. This grouping includes: Stone Ridge, Accord, Kerhonkson, Lomontville, High Falls, Tillson and Ellenville areas.

Opening of Bigger Jewelry Store Is Set by Saccomans

Gala opening of Saccoman's Jewelers Inc., a new store a 576 Broadway, will be observed the week of April 23 through 28, when the public is invited to visit it.

The store is considerably larger and more modern than the jewelry store at 578 Broadway operated by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony G. Saccoman of 18 West Chestnut Street the last 10 years.

"The increasing patronage of our customers made it necessary for us to expand," the store proprietor said. "We now have sufficient room to give our customers and our new customers better service and display more merchandise."

Myron Oppenheimer, of 153 Henry Street, is manager of Saccoman's Jewelers Inc.

The public is invited by the store proprietor to visit the new, large and modern store during next week, and register for gifts. It is not necessary to make a purchase to register for the gifts which include a 9-diamond dinner ring, a 3-diamond necklace, a Hamilton watch, Zenith transistor radio kit, a Sunbeam hair dryer, a silver city bow and many other articles of jewelry and other gifts.

Tomato aspic makes an excellent first-course salad if it is accompanied by anchovies or sardines. Garnish the combination with water cress or other salad greens.

Milt Pappas Beats Yanks, 1-0; St. Louis Hands Mets 7th Loss

Goes Six Frames, Hits Home Run In Oriole Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

A month ago Milt Pappas' side was throbbing. Today his right arm was throbbing. But Baltimore Manager Billy Hitchcock was smiling.

Making his first start since he climbed out of a hospital bed last month, Pappas set the New York Yankees down on two hits for six innings and accounted for the game's lone run as the Orioles whipped the world champions 1-0 Wednesday night.

The 23-year-old right-hander, rushed to the hospital in March for an appendectomy, allowed only two singles and one walk while providing the Orioles with the run they needed on a 340-foot homer in the fifth inning.

Hoyt Saves It

Hoyt Wilhelm, 38, the veteran knuckleball specialist, came on to preserve Pappas' triumph when his arm stiffened. Wilhelm got six straight Yanks, then had to pitch out of a one-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth to nail it down.

Don Mossi pitched a five-hitter for Detroit's 5-1 victory over Washington, Chicago's White Sox edged Minnesota 3-2 and the Los Angeles Angels defeated Kansas City 3-2 in other American League games. Cleveland and Boston were not scheduled.

Pappas' homer was the sixth of his career, and the first hit off Yankees' starter Bill Stafford, who left for a pinch hitter in the eighth after checking the Orioles on two hits.

Unearned Run

The only run off Mossi was an unearned tally that came across in the seventh when Dale Long and Willie Tasby singled and Steve Boros threw wild on Bob Johnson's grounder. The Tigers, however, had already built a 5-0 bulge against Joe McClain as Al Kaline hit a first inning homer and started a four-run rally in the fourth with a double.

Homers by winning pitcher Ray Herbert and Al Smith gave the White Sox an early lead before the Twins tied it. Floyd Robinson won it for the Chicagoans' with a run-producing single off Don Lee in the sixth.

Bo Belinsky, making his first major league appearance, got the victory over the A's with Art Fowler's three-inning relief help. Belinsky also drove in the tie-breaking run in a three-run fourth inning with a single after Billy Moran's bases-loaded single had tied it for the Angels. Norm Bass was the loser.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Milt Pappas, Orioles, making first start since an appendectomy last month, pitched two-hit ball for six innings and hit homer for game's lone run before reliever Hoyt Wilhelm took over and finished 1-0 victory over New York Yankees.

Batting—Floyd Robinson, White Sox, raised batting average to .536 with three singles, including run-producing safety in sixth inning that beat Minnesota 3-2.

Musial Shows Way in 15-5 Card Victory

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Aging Stan Musial was almost apologetic about it.

"I guess so," Musial admitted when asked whether his blistering start may prompt him to try it again in 1963. "I told John (St. Louis manager Johnny Keane) I wanted to play just this one more. But I think he knows if I had a good year I'd probably be back."

And Musial, 41, is off to one of his greatest starts. He lashed out two hits in the Cardinals' 15-5 romp over the New York Mets Wednesday and improved his National League leading batting average to .474.

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn gained the 310th victory of his career in a 6-4 decision over San Francisco while Ernie Banks' 300th career home run with two out in the 10th brought the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 decision over Houston. Cincinnati blasted the Los Angeles Dodgers 14-0 and unbeaten Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 4-3 for its seventh straight victory.

Musial's two hits gave him a total of 3,410, only 20 short of Honus Wagner's National League record.

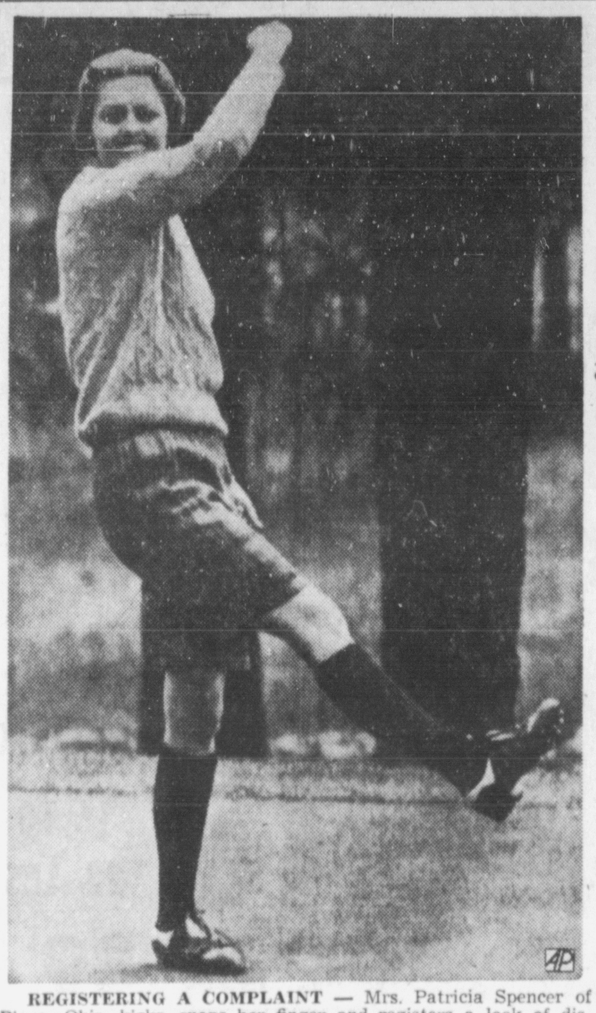

In all, the undefeated Cards, who have won five, pounded 18 hits off four Met pitchers. Included were a pair of home runs by Kenny Boyer and one each by Julian Javier and Carl Warwick. It was the sixth straight loss for Casey Stengel's Mets.

Banks' homer brought the Cubs their first victory in eight starts this season. The blow, off relief man Dick Farrell, made Banks only the 20th man in the history of the majors to reach the 300 figure. Lefty Dick Ellsworth went the distance for the victory.

San Francisco had a 3-2 lead on doubles by Jim Davenport and Jose Pagan, and Tom Haller's homer before Spahn started Milwaukee's winning rally by walking as the lead-off man in the eighth. Before the inning was over, Eddie Mathews doubled in two runs and Frank Bolling singled in two more, and the Braves were home safe. Homers by Mathews and Hank Aaron produced the first two Milwaukee runs.

Bob Skinner's three-run homer and Earl Francis' relief pitching were the keys to the Pirates seventh straight. Francis blanked the Phillies on three hits after taking over for Wilmer Mizell in the third. Bill Mazeroski also had a homer for the winners. Jack Hamilton was the loser.

Vada Pinson drove in five runs, three on a homer, and Jim O'Toole pitched a four-hitter in Cincinnati's shutout of Los Angeles. Jerry Lynch also homered for the Reds.

REGISTERING A COMPLAINT — Mrs. Patricia Spencer of Piqua, Ohio, kicks, snaps her finger and registers a look of disgust as a long putt slides by the hole of the 12th green of the Pinehurst Country Club in Pinehurst, N. C. during her match in the North and South women's golf tourney. Mrs. Spencer was defeated in the match by Marge Burns of Greensboro, N. C., 4 and 3. (AP Wirephoto)

Celtics Capture 4th Straight NBA Crown

By BOB SALMON
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics — possibly the greatest team in basketball history—wore their latest world championship crown with a cocky tilt today.

The crown wasn't anything new. The Celtics first won it in 1957. But the victory Wednesday night that earned them their fifth title in six years and their fourth straight National Basketball Association championship was a special one—particularly appreciated because it was won the hard way.

A critical manpower problem brought on by injuries and personal fouls couldn't stop Boston from driving to a 110-107 overtime triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers at Boston Garden. Boston won the best-of-seven final series, 4-3.

Veteran Carl Braun perhaps summed up the feelings of the Boston players, old and young alike, when he bubbled:

"I've got permission from owner Walter Brown and I'm keeping my Celtics shirt. I may even wear it to bed."

Good Spirit

Spirit like Braun's was what enabled the Celtics to do what no other NBA team ever had managed before—win the title four years running. Boston now has won the championship five times in the last six years.

But if the Celtics were the greatest, the Lakers weren't far behind, as Los Angeles Coach Fred Schaus pointed out. The Lakers came within an inch or two of becoming the new world champs on a tremendous last-minute rally in regulation time.

The drive was engineered by Frank Selvy, who dropped in his only two baskets of the night in the final 40 seconds to tie it 100-all. Selvy barely missed a winning basket with three seconds left.

"I thought it was all over when Selvy shot from that corner," said Celtics Coach Red Auerbach. "The guys won it, though, and it was one we had to win.

"We're an aging club and if we hadn't won this one it would have made it rough psychologically for the guys in the future. But now we're still the champions and the rest of the league still has to catch us."

Injuries hampered the play of Bob Cousy, Bill Russell, Frank Ramsey and Tom Heinsohn. Then in the fourth period Tom Sanders, Jim Loscutoff and Heinsohn fouled out, Ramsey following in the opening seconds of the five-minute overtime session.

Unsung Sam Jones, however, came up with five points in the overtime period and Russell added four. That gave Jones 27 for the night, 25 of them after the first half.

Musial Enjoying Best Spring Since 1957, May Not Retire

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Because he can't get base hits out of his system, Stan (The Man) Musial has changed his mind about retiring at the end of this season.

There's nothing official about it yet but the way Stan feels about it right now, he "probably" will continue to play at least through the 1963 season.

"That is," he says, "unless my batting eye suddenly grows dim." An unlikely happening, indeed.

The St. Louis Cardinals' great slugger is enjoying his best spring since he won his last batting title in 1957 when he hit .351. His average through five games is a stratospheric .474. He got two more hits in Wednesday's 15-5 rout of the New York Mets, giving him 9-for-19, just 20 hits shy of Honus Wagner's lifetime total of 3,430, a National League record.

Oddly enough, part of the reason for Musial's great start is because he was sure this would be his last season.

Worked Harder

"John (St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane) and I talked it over at the start of spring training," Musial explained today, "and we decided I was going to work harder to get into playing shape than I had been doing in recent years. In the past, I took things rather easy in spring training, hoping to conserve my energy for the regular season. As a result, I usually didn't get into top physical shape until about May or June.

"This spring, I played in more exhibition games than ever before. I came down south weighing the same as I did when I finished the 1961 season and I deliberately worked off five more pounds. As a result, I'm the lightest (181) I've been in 10 years and I'm in the best shape I've been in a long time.

"I feel so good, I see no reason why I can't play next year. I know I'll be 42 but my legs feel strong, my health is good and I have no aches and pains. Also, I'm swinging good. I've detected no slowing up in my timing and I'm pulling the ball as well as ever."

NY-Penn Loop To Start 24th Year Apr. 28

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The sturdy little New York - Penn League, oldest active Class D baseball circuit in the nation, opens its 24th season April 28.

Born as the Pony League in 1939, the circuit has survived every pestilence professional baseball is heir to—declining attendance, lack of players, inroads of television, even war and flood.

The league is trimmed to six teams again this year. Elmira withdrew to rejoin the Class A Eastern League and Wellsville, smallest town in the lineup, just withdrew. It was a six-team circuit three times previously—once during World War II, and twice since, because of box-office troubles.

The Geneva Redlegs, a Cincinnati farm team and the 1961 NYP League pennant-winners, again looks like a solid contender, along with the Jamestown Tigers, a Detroit affiliate.

Solid Outfield

Geneva manager Karl Kuehl claims the hardest hitting outfield in all of Class D baseball, good enough to force him to the bench despite 19 home runs and a .319 average last year.

"I can't make this club," says Kuehl. "I don't know who's job I'd take."

Jamestown, with Stubby Overmire at the helm, ripped off nine straight victories at one stage during the training season.

"Our pitching is awfully green," says Overmire. "Otherwise, I believe we are pretty solid."

A pleasant Jamestown surprise is centerfielder Jim Rooker, who has changed his stance to steady his swing and cure his habit of striking out on the curve ball—a habit he indulged in 168 times last year.

In Olean, Red Sox manager Hal Holland has a $125,000 Boston bonus baby on first base, slender, 6-foot-2 Bob Guindon.

On the unknown quantity side as the minor league camps continue their shake-down cruises in the South, are the New York Mets' Auburn farm club, Pittsburgh's Batavia Pirates and the Minnesota Twins' Erie Sailors.

The opening day schedule for April 28:

Batavia at Olean, Geneva at Auburn, Jamestown at Erie. The clubs reverse towns for the second opening April 29.

Despite Disqualification

Beacon Nips Saugerties In Dual Track Meet

Beacon High thinclads suffered a disqualification at Saugerties yesterday but still managed to nip the Sawyers, 51 5/6 - 51 1/6 in a dual track meet.

Ralph Valentine, one of the Beacon stars, took part in one too many events and his second place finish in the 220 was forfeited. Another Beaconite—Bob Lilly—didn't place in the 220. If he had, he would have forfeited his place for also taking part in too many events.

Richie Giannotti was a double winner for the Sawyers, taking the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash. Chuck Schirmer set an individual mark, throwing the shot put 41 feet, 7 inches. He won that event.

The results:

180 yard low hurdles—1. Rich Reissler, S; 2. Terry Reissler, S; 3. Henry Williamson, B. Time 23.4 seconds.

100 yard dash — 1. Richie Giannotti, S; Ralph Valentine, B; 3. Bob Lilly, B. Time 10.8 seconds.

Toronto, Chicago To Resume Series

TORONTO (AP) — Chicago's gingery Black Hawks and the battered Toronto Maple Leafs clash tonight in what should be a pivotal fifth game in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup hockey championship series.

Bouncing back from two defeats in Toronto to take two straight at home, the Hawks are ready to deliver what they believe will be the key blow—a victory in Toronto—and go on and wrap up the series on their home ice in game No. 6 Sunday.

Toronto has different ideas, although the Maple Leafs might have to play without the services of star goalie John Bower, who was injured in the 4-1 loss in Chicago Tuesday.

Bower suffered a groin injury after making a great save on one of Bobby Hull's burning shots. He slipped, did the splits and minutes later had to leave the game in the first period.

Chicago then pounced on substitute goalie Don Simmons for three more goals and the victory which evened what has become the win-at-home series.

Davis to Play In All-Star Tilt

He announced Wednesday that he had accepted an invitation to play in the June Bowl Game, which is co-sponsored by the Bowl Association and the American Football Coaches Association. The west won last year's inaugural, 30-20.

Henry T. Adios, Mighty Tide Favorites for HTA Series

Henry T. Adios, 3-year old pacer of the year in 1961, and Mighty Tide, an early-season star that was sidelined by virus last August, have established themselves as early favorites for the $121,000 Harness Tracks of America Championship Series for 4-year olds.

The two standouts will head a field of HTA eligibles named for the $50,000 Realization Mile at Roosevelt Raceway in New York April 28 and then will take to the trail in the eight-race HTA Series that starts at Rosecroft Raceway near Washington May 11 and moves to Chicago's Maywood Park May 18. Other stops are Hazel Park, Detroit, May 25; Lebanon and Scioto Downs in Ohio June 1 and 8; Buffalo Raceway June 15; Monticello, N. Y., June 29; and the $50,000 final for the 10 highest point winners at Yonkers Raceway in New York July 5.

Impressive Debuts

Both Henry T. and Mighty Tide showed their class in seasonal debuts at Roosevelt. Mighty Tide turned back seven other HTA candidates impressively in a $10,00 invitational for 4-year olds. Henry T. bypassed that race to tackle the sport's older free-for-all stars in a $25,000 mile event. He finished fifth, beaten by the brilliant brother team of Irvin Paul and Stephan Smith and the Anzac Imports Caduceus and Apmat, but he turned in a strong mile and presumably was not helped by the loss of a guiding head pole during the race. Irvin Paul won in 2:02 4/5.

Mighty Tide's closest rivals in his 2.04 4/5 victory over a good track were Shadydale Monitor and Mississinewa, both HTA hopefuls. Other HTA candidates in the race included Lumber Dream and Cold Front, who finished fourth and fifth, and Hogan Hanover, Flying Baker and Sweet Miriam, who were seventh, eighth and ninth. The last four were making their first starts of the year, and all are eligible for the Realization as well as HTA.

Then he drove a two-run homer into left field for Goshen High School's baseball team, a 10-4 winner over Highland Falls high.

Will Recall 300

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says its New Process Gear Division will call back 300 employes laid off in the last six months and will hire an additional 100 workers.

The company said Wednesday it was adding to its labor force because of increased car sales.

The division's plant here manufactures transmissions and differentials and employs about 1,750.

27,000 Cars Are Checked During Traffic Survey

A three-day origin and destination traffic survey conducted by the State Department of Public Works in the greater Poughkeepsie area ended Wednesday afternoon and records show that during the check of motor vehicles more than 27,000 motorists were stopped.

James Spratt Jr., district planning engineer of the department, told The Freeman today that although the anticipated 35,000 figure was not reached the total of the survey was "far above any minimum anticipated."

"The public cooperated 100 per cent," Spratt said, "and we are grateful to the motorists and the agencies that assisted in the survey, including the State Bridge Authority."

Spratt said the next move is the processing of the survey results, which he said would take approximately six months. He said a target date of about one year was set before recommendations for new highway projects are made.

Results of the survey will assist the Public Works Department in planning future roadbuilding and improvement projects in the greater Poughkeepsie area, Spratt said.

Robert W. Weiss, special education teacher at Myron J. Michael School, here, recently elected president of the Special Education Teachers' Association, served as program chairman.

Janice Gaines of Kingston was in charge of the trainables workshop.

U.N. Moves Into Airport

Tshombe Leaves After Congolese Troops Quit

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe left by plane for Elisabethville today despite efforts by central Congolese officials to keep him at Leopoldville airport, a U.N. spokesman here reported.

Reports reaching Elisabethville said Congolese troops who prevented a U.N. DC4 airliner from taking off with Tshombe Wednesday withdrew after U.N. forces set up machine-gun posts.

The U.N. spokesman in Elisabethville could not confirm this report.

Tshombe had attempted to take off from Leopoldville at noon Wednesday but Congolese troops blocked off the airstrip. The plane turned back to the U.N. sector of the airport, and the Katanga leader and 22 other passengers refused to leave the plane despite the broiling heat inside.

To Return Next Week

Tshombe had been holding a series of Congo unity conferences with Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula. He said in a departure announcement he wanted to make an Easter visit to Elisabethville and would return to Leopoldville next week for more talks.

In Elisabethville, acting Katanga President Evariste Kimba declared Wednesday night that the central government's action against Tshombe showed "its absolute disdain for the negotiations."

The United States and the United Nations joined in a stern demand Wednesday night that the central government release Tshombe. U.N. Secretary-General U Thant ordered the U.N. chief in the Congo, Robert Gardiner, to make every effort to aid the Katanga leader.

The United States, which had joined the U.N. in assuring Tshombe's safety in Leopoldville, followed through with a statement declaring that Tshombe "must have full freedom to depart from Leopoldville whenever he wishes."

Acting on Own

Officials in Washington believed that Tshombe's detention had been ordered by lower-level Congolese officials acting on their own rather than on orders from Premier Adoula. Adoula left Leopoldville earlier Wednesday for an inspection trip up country.

Diplomatic sources in Leopoldville said central government officials were angered because they had not been informed of Tshombe's departure plans.

Tshombe originally had balked at coming to Leopoldville because the central government arrested him a year ago at Coquilhatville when he tried to walk out on a unity conference. He was held nearly two months.

Moses Critical Of Barnes' View On Parkway Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Moses has warned the city's new traffic commissioner, Henry A. Barnes, that he'll "find New York a tough town" if he talks offbase.

Off Base, He Says

Moses considers that Barnes—three months in his job here after leaving a similar post in Baltimore—was off-base when he criticized Moses' method of parkway planning.

Barnes, urging improvement of mass transportation as a way to meet traffic and parking problems, said Tuesday that "it's a whale of a lot cheaper to subsidize public transportation than to build highways." He suggested that express buses be allowed on city parkways to help keep private cars out of Manhattan. He also said that Moses, former city parks commissioner, built parkways that brought motorists to the edge of Manhattan "and left them there."

Moses, with his usual rare form of acidiferous rhetoric, struck back Wednesday.

He wrote a letter in his capacity as chairman of the Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority—one of a dozen important state, regional and city posts he holds.

Ignorant on Subject

Moses said Barnes "is just 100 per cent ignorant" on the subject of parkways.

And he said Barnes hasn't been in the city long enough to develop any pride in "our accomplishments" or to be sensitive about "baseless criticism."

Moses said parkways are restricted to passenger cars for more leisurely travel.

Barnes, using that comment as his cue, came back with this quip:

"I agree heartily. Some of the most leisurely driving in the world takes place on the parkways here—about five miles an hour in peak periods. Cars go bumper-to-bumper and fender-to-fender, and they will as long as Mr. Moses insists on the outmoded concept of trying to move cars—not people."

Worker Awarded $500,000, Largest Ever for Erie

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A construction worker who claimed he received permanent brain and internal injuries after being struck by a beam has been awarded a $500,000 personal injury verdict, the largest ever returned in Erie County.

A State Supreme Court jury Wednesday returned the verdict against the engineering contracting concern of Herbert F. Darling of suburban Williamsville.

The worker, Robert G. Wolfe, 42, of suburban Hamburg, was struck by a 300-pound beam that slipped from a clamshell bucket being lifted by a crane. The accident occurred on a construction job in 1958.

The jury said the Darling concern was "actively negligent" in failing to provide a safe place for Wolfe to work.

Girl, 5, Dies Day Following Happy Birthday

CORINTH, N.Y. (AP)—Brenda Lozier happily celebrated her fifth birthday Tuesday. Wednesday night, she died in a fire that swept her family's second-floor apartment in this Saratoga County village.

Brenda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lozier, was trapped in the living room of the apartment. Three firemen suffered minor injuries trying to rescue her.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Hyde Park Is Seeking More Firms

Nine members of the newly formed Town of Hyde Park Industrial Committee named by Town Supervisor William P. Schryver, will meet today to organize and discuss plans to seek additional industry.

John Beal, industrial development representative of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., is scheduled to review property in Hyde Park available for industry at today's meeting.

Supervisor Schryver named the following to the committee: Alexander McKittrick, manager of the Hyde Park branch of the Kingston First Federal Savings and Loan Association; Peter Van Kleeck, manager of the Hyde Park branch of the Farmers and Manufacturers National Bank, Poughkeepsie; John H. Woods, assistant cashier of the Marine Midland Bank of Southeastern New York; William Brenner, Hyde Park real estate broker.

Also, Manley L. Behrens, Hyde Park real estate broker; Edmund Leschot, chairman of the Hyde Park Planning Board and president of the Cross Road Press, Hyde Park; Ralph Simmons, Staatsburg, appraising consultant and former Hyde Park assessor and Donald Winslow, a Hyde Park architectural engineer.

WV Has the Answer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Ava Schermerhorn, retiring after 43 years as a Western Union employe, recalled a message to a new father. It said:

"Congratulations, you have daughter 7 pounds, 5 ounces."

Enclosed with the telegram was an advertisement from the company, for its messenger service, which said:

"If you want a boy, call Western Union."
